Gov. Casey Gives Heifers Send-Off To Canary Islands

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin) — Gov. Robert P. Casey said today that the upcoming shipment of Holstein heifers to the Canary Islands is the type of trade that helped Pennsylvania set new food and agricultural export records.

"Foreign markets are eager for Pennsylvania's quality products," Gov. Casey said. "These Holsteins are just one of the ways Pennsylvania is marketing agricultural pro-

Current Milk Price Situation Reported

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

Buoyed by rising prices for cheese and nonfat dry milk, farm milk prices are on the rise this fall, bringing some relief to dairymen beset by higher feed costs.

The Minnesota-Wisconsin price series, a measure of the prices paid for milk by manufacturing plants in the upper Midwest, rose 46 cents in August, to $10.98 a hundredweight for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. That was one of the largest gains in the history of the M-W, which the U.S. Department of Agriculture uses to set prices in its federal order system across the country.

The August gain will translate into an October Class I price of $14.01 in Federal Order 4, the Middle Atlantic order. Similarly, the October Class I price in Order 2, the New York-New Jersey order, will climb to $13.53. The M-W increase also boosted August Class II prices in the two orders.

Analysts are predicting further M-W gains as strong cheese sales tighten a supply-demand equation that's already been squeezed by the drought.

Jim Fraher, an economist with Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, said the M-W should peak at about $11.40 this fall, only a couple cents lower than its top level a year ago when the federal government's support price was 50 cents higher.

The gains in federal order prices will not come at the expense of lower over-order premiums. These are imposed atop the minimums mandated by the orders. Moreover, the two local over-order bargaining agencies, the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Agency and the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency, are being aided by a local supply-demand situation even tighter than the national one, Fraher said.

Both MACMMA and RCMA have announced intentions of continuing their current Class I premiums -- $1.05 in the case of MACMMA, 70 cents for RCMA -- through at least the beginning of 1989. The $1.05 differential on Class I milk prices imposed by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board is in effect at least through February. And many handlers with independent producers are offering similar-sized premiums on their own.

Nevertheless, the combined effect of these premiums and the rising prices only restores dairy-

Southeast Farm Credit Offers Scholarship Again

WEST CHESTER — The Board of Directors of the Southeast Farm Credit Service is pleased to announce the availability of its eighth annual $500 scholarship toward the higher education of a student planning to pursue a career in agriculture. The Southeast Associations have offices in Avondale and Silverdale with an outpost office in Creamery; the headquarters office is located in West Chester. They serve over 1,350 members of the agricultural community in Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery, and Philadelphia counties with long and short-term financing.

One of the requirements of the applicant is that his or her parent(s) or guardian(s) must reside in one of those counties. The applicant must be a high school senior planning to attend a four year college on a full-time basis with agriculture or agri-business as the major emphasis of study.

Notification of the availability of the scholarship is being sent to the administrators of the secondary schools in the five-county area.

Kansas Economist Compares Farming; Sees Contracting Ahead

BY
EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

GETTYSBURG (Adams) — A Kansas agricultural economist took a look at the farm situation in Pennsylvania and the Mid-Atlantic states, and found the same trends as in the Midwest. "I was astounded to find that what's happening to farming in the Midwest is also happening to farming in the East," said Dr. Barry Flinchbaugh, state leader ag economics, Kansas State University.

Dr. Flinchbaugh, one of the featured speakers at the 110th Annual Convention of the Penn Ag Industries Association here this week, said large farms are increasing and small part-time farms are increasing, but the middle-sized farms are being squeezed out. In this bimodal process the mid-sized farm is too big to allow the operator to take an extra job in town, but too small to take advantage of all the modern efficiencies. "So they get squeezed from either side," Flinchbaugh said.

Flinchbaugh reported statistics that show a relatively small number of farms have from one-quarter to one-half million dollars gross annual income but produce from 40 to 60 percent of all agriculture sales. And while there are more part-time farms in Pennsylvania than in Kansas, the difference is not nearly as great as the "popular notion". This bimodal system where the medium-sized farm is in trouble is happening in Pennsylvania just like in Kansas.

The economist said we are clearly moving toward a contract system. And while eastern farmers have contracted vegetable crops for some time, it's a new idea for mid-west wheat farmers.

Contract Farming

Flinchbaugh gave three reasons why he sees contract farming in the future. First, biotechnology, while able to reduce pesticide needs with biology, will be costly. These costs will need to be spread over the total industry. The farmer and the local town banker will not be able to foot the bill alone. Because of the largeness of this process, Flinchbaugh doesn't see us returning to the small-farm agriculture that is often romantically invisioned by environmentalists and animal welfare groups. He believes sustainable agriculture will replace some traditional inputs with management that requires a high degree of sophistication.

Because of low yields at first in the sustainable agriculture Flinchbaugh believes we will need to farm more land. "So, I propose that biotechnology will lead us to larger farms," Flinchbaugh said. "And we will do it by contracting with corporate or cooperative agri-businesses. In addition, the low margins of profit will also head us in the contracting direction."

But Flinchbaugh sees the real reason for farmers contracting with agri-businesses to be the need for orderly marketing. "A fast food French fry in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, must taste, look like, and cost about the same as the fry in Fresno, California," Flinchbaugh said.

This calls for quality control, and requires contracting. The fast food people will contract a year in advance for specific quantity, quality and price. In addition, agri-

PennAg Honors LF Writer

GETTYSBURG (Adams) — PennAg Industries Association gathered for their 110th convention at Gettysburg on September 18 through 20. The Tuesday night banquet spotlighted Pat Purcell, a "Lancaster Farming" staff writer, as the ag journalist of the year.

She received a plaque and $500 for what Sam Shenk, director of services for PennAg, called clear, concise writing that showed indepth research on important issues to farmers.

Purcell's articles were chosen from entries across the state. Her three award winning articles previously appeared in "Lancaster Farming." They included articles on the Chesapeake Bay pollution problems, Garden Spot High School's Grassland FFA Building our American Communities Project and a series on Johnes, a disease in dairy cattle causing economic hardship to state dairy far-

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures closed mixed today gaining 1 and 1/4 on the December option and losing from 1-1/2 to 1-3/4 on the back options. Trading was quiet today with many traders absent for the holiday. Support in the nearbys was generated by strong cash basis levels and a firmer export line-up while the deferreds were pressured by the unwinding of bear spreads. Some support came from a slow down in the harvest and rumors of increased aflatoxin levels in Iowa and Illinois. The September option expired midday at $2.76-1/2, up 2-3/4 cents.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures closed from 1 cent to 7 cents higher this afternoon but off session highs on late profit-taking. Support early in the session was attributed to firmer European values and possible harvest delays due to forecasts for continued rain. Further support was linked to strength in the cash basis levels and a solid near term export lineup. September expired midday at $8.27-1/2. Trading today was quiet with many players absent due to the religious holiday.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures today closed from unchanged to up 1/2 cent after trading in a narrow range throughout the session. Support today came from a solid export outlook with Morocco resubmitting its bid for 170,000 metric tonnes. September expired quietly midday at $4.05, up 1/2. Commission buying was featured today. Optimism over a possible accord with the Soviet Union on a long term grain agreement underpinned.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures settled lower this afternoon on selling largely associated with weaker cash fundamentals and light movement at lwoer prices. Further pressure was linked to a sharp decline in open interest on Tuesday and concerns about the heavier weights on current marketings. Feeder cattle futures mirrored live cattle losing from 47 to 92 points on spillover weakness and long liquidation and profit taking.

Wednesday, September 21, 1988

Demand for ready-to-cook whole birds was fair to fairly good overall. Supplies were generally fully adequate. In the parts complex leg quarters were in a tighter position while skinned boneless breast were in excess of trade needs. The remaining items were at least adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 54 to 68 cents. Discounting continued in an effort to stimulate movement, especially on the heavier sizes. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were desirable to mostly heavy. Slaughter schedules moderately heavy. The undertone was barely steady to steady.

Prices trended higher as breakers attempted to keep up with rising costs. Several further processors reduced schedules as resistance to spiraling prices quelled buyer interest. Floor stocks were fully adequate for current trade needs.

Wings were no more than adequate with spot interest going unfilled. Take Your Seat, The Performance Is About To Begin.

You'll applaud the performance of Funk's G-Hybrids like G-4543, G-4626 and G-4446 when the curtain falls at harvest time.

A top choice for shelled grain or ear corn in 110 to 120-day maturity areas, G-4543 produces maximum yields even at lower populations. In Delaware hybrid field corn trials, it topped the field with 148.4 bu./A.

G-4626 has it all in a 115 to 120-day maturity hybrid—fast dry-down, outstanding stay-green, superior standability, excellent plant health and exceptional yields. In Delaware trials, G-4626 produced yields up to 200.9 bu./A.

G-4446 delivers superior late season standability, excellent grain quality and high test weights. A multi-purpose, widely adapted hybrid, G-4446 produced a state record 252.4 bu./A. in the 1986 Pa. Five-Acre Corn Club competition.

SEPT. 26-OCT. 2, 1988

Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness.

Poet T. S. Eliot born at St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 26, 1888 . . . Portuguese navigator Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo discovered California Sept. 28, 1542 . . . Average length of days for the week 11 hours, 51 minutes . . . First "Peanuts" comic strip published Oct. 2, 1950 . . . Last quarter of the moon Oct. 2 (Sun.) . . . Mahatma Gandhi born at Porbandar, India, Oct. 2, 1869 . . . It's always morning somewhere in the world.

Ask the Old Farmer: Do you have any idea where the word skulch originated? My mother used to say, "Clean out the skulch in your room," or ask Dad to take skulch to the dump I can't find the word in any dictionary E.S., Milford, N.H.

Skulch probably originated from cull, as in to separate out inferior sheep from a flock. Later it became culch, meaning the inferior animals that were culled. It then went into general usage as a word meaning poor stuff, but too good to throw away. We would say skulch is a local variation of culch that means trash.

Home Hints: To remove water marks on furniture, try applying toothpaste with a damp cloth

OPINION

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff told the Penn Ag Convention this week that he believes important ag programs will be reinstated in the state budget through the supplemental budget bill in front of state lawmakers when they get back to work later this month. "We've had a bumper crop of politics surrounding the budget this year," Wolff said.

What that means is that earlier this year the state House controlled by the Democrats and the state Senate controlled by the Republicans hammered out a state budget compromise and sent it to the administration (Democratic) for Govenor Casey's signature. To keep the state government operating past the fiscal year deadline, the governor signed the budget into law but not until he had blue line vetoed a whole list of individual ag and other appropriation items. At the time, administration spokespersons said the Republicans had padded the budget requests.

Almost immediately thereafter the governor reportedly returned most of the ag funding back into his supplemental budget bill and sent it back to the legislators. But he packaged it with "other priorities" that the Republicans in the legislative body do not view favorably.

When we reported this conflict the first week in July, one of our contacts predicted it would be a long hot summer in Harrisburg. But my goodness now. The tobacco is cut, the silage is stored. Corn and beans are ready to harvest. And it's still sizzling.

Really the political budget hassle this year reminds us of an NBA basketball game. One big center pushes the other team's big center. We can understand that a change from a Republican to a Democratic administration would bring about some change of priorities. But we do not understand why some of these ag programs should be part of the political maneuverings.

For example, the fair fund that envelopes the funding for 4-H and FFA materials is part of this political basketball game. This fair fund supports the effort to showcase agriculture in the local communities across the state. Only ag-related projects are funded. So, the ag fairs that don't have midways to generate income are hit the hardest. And in 4-H and FFA a $2-$3 budget per youth is not padded. Especially when you consider the multiple hours of volunteer adult leadership put into this program to compliment the state dollar input.

Because the checks never go out from the state treasurery until later in the fall, one official said funding for these programs is not even late yet. But in other years, when local committees made expenditures, they did so knowing they would be reinbursed. And by what amount. This year, the heat has been on all summer.

We can only suggest that with the fall planting well underway on the farm, it would be time for each team on the political court in Harrisburg to give each other two foul points and get on with some other game.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Be Aware of Frosted Crops

Colder weather means frost. In fact this is good news to many of us who have had enough of hot humid weather this summer. Livestock producers who have fields of sudan-sorghum hybrids, should keep in mind that when frost hits these crops they could be toxic to livestock for seven to ten days following the freeze. After this period, and the plants are dead, they may be used safely. However, any growth coming from the plant after a killing frost might also be toxic.

Another frost hazard would be to permit livestock to graze alfalfa or clover stands while the frost is still on the plants. This can cause severe bloating. Allow the frost to melt and the plants to dry before grazing. Good management is needed on various forage crops after a killing frost.

To Be Careful During Silo Filling

Two problems occur during silo filling time. One is overloading wagons causing broken spindles, twisted frames and bent axles. Corn silage is heavy and overloaded wagons crossing ditches or ruts in fields causes excessive strain on equipment. If your wagon is full when only half way around the field, change wagons; the "down time" to make repairs is more costly than the time to change wagons.

The other problem is "silo gas". I've discussed it before but it is important enough to review again. We are receiving calls concerning silo gas. These gases can develop from one day to 14 days after the silo is filled. Most of these gases have a chlorine-laundry bleach odor. Some are yellow and some are colorless. Don't take any chances — never enter a partly filled silo without running the blower for at least 15 minutes. These gases are heavier than air and will come down the chute into the barn. Be careful around recently filled silos.

To Consult Your Veterinarian

Being on excellent terms with your local veterinarian is a real good thing. Most producers need veterinary assistance once in a while. Developing a health program and sanitary practices for the farm operation is strongly suggested. Veterinarians are trained in disease prevention and treatment with the most important part being disease prevention. When this is successful there is little need for high veterinary costs.

We suggest that producers regard their veterianarian as a valuable resource person for their farm operation; there may be times when it might be expensive; however, the prevention of infection and the saving of animals are things that must be done in order to make the most profit. Give your vet a chance to help.

To Store Pesticides Safely

Most producers are about finished with their spray materials for the year. Many of these can be held over until next year with good results. However, it is always best to buy only enough for one season at a time. When storing spray materials, always keep them in their original containers and away from children, pets and livestock. It is best to have a separate room or building for pesticide storage. Wettable powders are easy to store; however, emulsions and liquids may be harmed by freezing weather. Producers are urged to follow the label and instructions in this respect. It may be necessary to keep some of them in a heated building. Be sure they are not near feed supplies because accidents can happen. Pesticides kept in a room or building under a lock is a good way to prevent costly mistakes and tragedies.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE LIMITS OF UNDERSTANDING
September 25, 1988

Background Scripture:
Job 38:1-7; 40:1-9; 42.
Devotional Reading:
Job 40:6-14.

People are always searching for answers to the biggest questions of life-- "Why was I born?" "What's the purpose of life?" "What happens after we die?" "Does God have something for me to do or be?" And so forth. In one way or another, these questions are directed toward God.

Just as it was acceptable for Job to question God, so it is no less appropriate for us to come to God with our questions and even our complaints. But we must never forget that this is a two-way street: if we are justified in sending some tough questions to the Creator, so we need to be no less willing to listen when he responds to us with words that make our spirits tremble: "Who is this who darkens counsel by words without knowledge? Gird up your loins like a man, I will question you, and you shall declare to me" (Job 38:2,3).

WHERE WERE YOU?

God doesn't mind Job's questions, but the real issue is whether Job could possibly comprehend God's answers, if he gave them. "Where were you when I laid the foundation of the earth? Tell me, if you have understanding?" (38:4) As God goes on from one stinging question to another, it is apparent that Job, as a human being, does not have the capacity to understand these answers. Job has a finite mind and the answers are of infinity. Ask all the questions you like, so long as you remember that you are not God and your understanding, at best, is a very limited one.

The story of Job is really one of misunderstanding. The people of Job's day did not really understand the nature of God, because they assumed that adversity was the sign of God's displeasure. Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar had arrogantly assumed that they knew God's mind when, in fact, they did not. In the very last chapter of Job, God chastises these three friends of Job, saying to Eliphaz. "My wrath is kindled against you...for you have not spoken of me what is right" (42:7).

THINGS TOO WONDERFUL

But if Job's three friends-- and the rest of his society-- failed to understand God, so did Job himself. He failed to understand that bad things happen to good people, that we do "good" out of love for God, not because we think it gives us a guarantee against suffering and adversity. At last, Job himself admits this: "Therefore I have uttered what I did not understand, things too wonderful for me, which I did not know" (43:3).

Still, in the midst of Job's humility, there comes a better understanding of God: "I had heard of thee by the hearing of the ear, but now my eyes see thee" (43:5). In all of this suffering, Job had really come even closer to God. Our understanding is limited, but our faith need not be.

News For Dairy Producers:

STOPS WORMS-NOT MILK RUMATEL ...IN ONE DAY...

RUMATEL® STOPS WORMS, NOT MILK,
IN ONE DAY!

- Stops major internal parasites—doesn't stop milk production
- Does the job in only one day, without milk discard.
- Lets you treat any time—dry, freshening or lactating.
- Gives you unsurpassed control against the most common worms
- Safe for cows during all phases of lactation and for breeding bulls and heifers.
- Saves labor...feed it in just one day's ration

Tests show that routinely dewormed cows give more milk than those not treated— so start your Rumatel® program now.

What's the latest on milk prices? Atlantic Field Representative Lew Springer, left, gives an update to ADC member Levi Glick, Quarryville, Pa.

One on One

What's the best approach to solving a farmer's problem? At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, we believe it's one-on-one. Face-to-face, informal meetings between our field representatives and our members.

Our field representatives are a crucial link between Atlantic and its members. The cooperative can pay out a record amount in patronage, equity and premiums, yet our members rely on the personal service they receive.

Each of our field representatives is trained to help dairy farmers produce better milk and make more money. They are experts in improving milk quality and milking systems, and are well-versed in farm construction and equipment.

Would you like to be a part of this one-on-one approach? Then call or write today. Get to know the advantages of Atlantic membership.

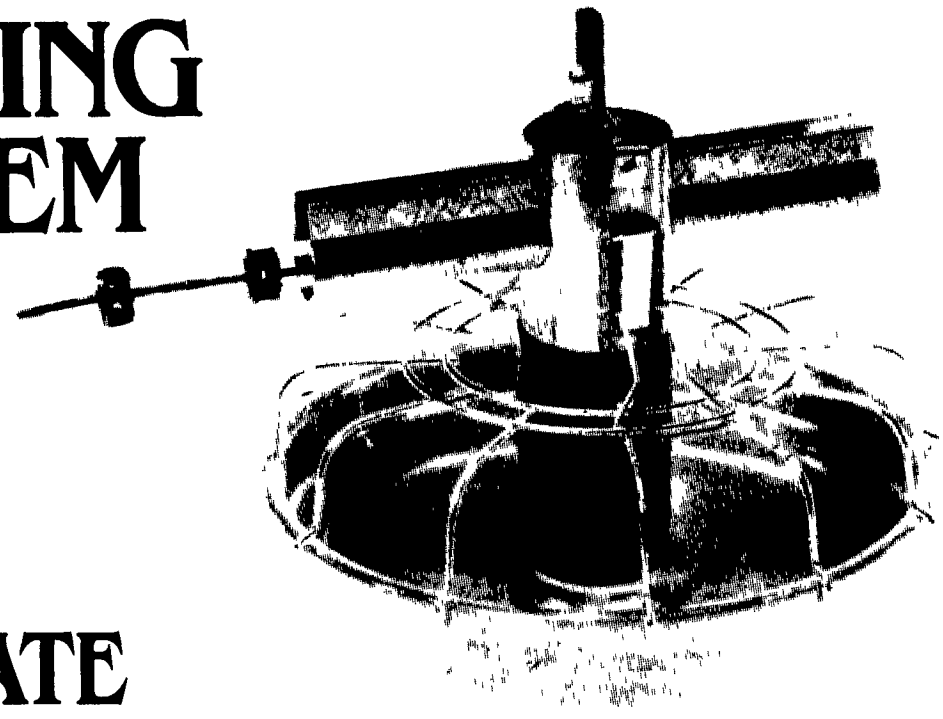
ROOSTER BOOSTER™
FEEDING SYSTEM



FOR SEPARATE FEEDING OF MALE BREEDERS

The benefits of separate feeding programs for male and female breeders are well documented Allows for specific feed formulations and decreases foot and leg problems Hens show increased hatchability and have access to feed without competition from males Valuable feed savings result

Only the Big Dutchman Rooster Booster feeding system simultaneously delivers feed to each feed pan without raising and lowering lines or programming individual feed tubes

The Rooster Boosters feeder lines are pre-charged with feed (33 lb /ft , 36 kg/m) so that all feed pans are filled simultaneously at system start-up

The feed ration, pre-weighed into a 200 lb (65 kg) capacity feed hopper, is distributed as required with the high-speed conveyor chain When the hopper is empty a low level switch stops the feeder and the lines are pre-charged for the next feeding Most feedings are accomplished in 10 minutes or less

Only Big Dutchman's Link Chain has the speed and flexibility for pre-charging feed lines while going up and over aisles to keep ends of the house clear

Big Dutchman's rugged all-steel and light weight link chain allows running speeds of 105 ft/minute (32m/min) Feed is carried between round discs and is moved uphill, downhill, and around ball bearing corners with virtually no ingredient separation With a capacity of over 2000 lbs (650 kg) per hour feed is delivered faster than roosters can eat, keeping the chain full at all times —the key is a pre-charged feeder

Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — After 14 years, the annual Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference has a new look and a new name. It's now the Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference. The name change represents an effort to present a broader scope of information for crop farmers in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

As in past years, the event is being sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grand universities in the participating states, with assistance from interested agribusiness representatives.

This year's one-day educational meeting and industry display is scheduled Dec. 14 at the York County fairground in York, Pa. More than 800 persons from the six-state area are expected to attend.

Activities will begin at 8 a.m. with free coffee and doughnuts, plus an opportunity to visit more than 50 industry exhibits in Memorial Hall at the fairground.

The educational program will run from 10 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. in the same building, with 1½ hours off for lunch in Old Main and another chance to visit industry displays in Memorial Hall.

Tickets for the noon lunch will be available soon at nominal cost from county offices of the Cooperative Extension Service throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. They must be purchased in advance — and not later than Dec. 2.

Two nationally known farm magazine writers will highlight the roster of speakers for this year's Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference.

Len Richardson, editor of Agri-chemical Age, a San Francisco, Calif.-based trade publication, will lead off the morning session with a presentation on "How Water Quality Issues Are Shaping Your Future."

Currently a resident of Danville, Calif., Richardson grew up on an Arizona dairy farm and served as that state's FFA president. He later was an associate editor of The National Future Farmer magazine.

Dr. John F. Marten of West Lafayette, Ind., will lead off the afternoon session as keynote speaker of the day. Dr. Marten's topic will concern "Farm Production, Prices and Politics in 1989." Marten is an agricultural consultant to several organizations and staff economist for Farm Journal magazine.

A native of central Illinois, Dr. Marten holds degrees in agricultural economics from Iowa State and Purdue universities. He was a popular speaker during the Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference in 1985 at the Maryland State fairground.

Other topics and speakers scheduled for the Dec. 14 meeting at York, Pa., include:

• "Conservation Tillage and Groundwater Quality" - Dr. Richard A. Weismiller, Extension agronomist at the University of Maryland in College Park.

• "Progress on Genetic Engineering to Achieve Roundup Tolerance in Crops" - Dr. Robert T. Fraley, director, plant science technology, Monsanto Agricultural Co.

• "Improving Nutrient Efficiency With No-Tillage" - Dr. V. Allan Bandel, Extension agronomist, Univ. of Md.

• "Tillage Alternatives" - Dr. Richard R. Johnson, senior agronomist, Deere & Co. Technical Center, Moline, Ill, and Lynn D. Hoffman, agronomy research center superintendent, Penn State University.

Second-Year 4-H'er Shows Grand Champion Hog At Ephrata Fair

BY LISA RISSER

EPHRATA (Lancaster) — The free-and-easy-moving heavyweight gilt shown by second-year 4-H'er Gerald Boyd impressed judge Jim Parlett of Aifville, a York pork breeder. He selected it over the 50 some other pigs at the Ephrata Fair's junior market hog show.

Boyd, son of Kerry and Deb Boyd of Ephrata, showed a 244-pound Hampshire cross that was bred by Strauss Brothers of Ephrata. This is the 10-year-old's first grand champion, but not his first brush with championship swine: he exhibited the reserve grand champion hog at the Elizabethtown Fair earlier this year.

Another Hampshire cross was named the reserve grand champion of the show. The barrow, shown by Kurtis Good of Denver, also was the reserve heavyweight champion to Boyd's champion. Good, the 15-year-old son of Ezra and Elsie Good, has been a 4-H'er for eight years and has shown reserve grand champions before.

A partial list of the placings follows.

Ephrata Sheep Champions Named

EPHRATA (Lancaster) — At the Ephrata Fair market lamb show Wednesday, Jody Weaver, New Holland, took the grand champion honors with a middleweight Hampshire-Suffolk crossbred. Judge Cheryl Fairbairn, Chester County Livestock Agent, said the champion was one of the best lambs she had ever seen.

Following the champion with similar conformation and quality was a reserve champion from the same weight class for Kristin Chupp. This lamb was also a Hampshire-Suffolk crossbred.

The champion heavyweight was shown by Laura Foulker, and the reserve heavyeight was shown by Chupp.

In the lightweight division, Keith Bollinger had the champion, and Mike Fasnacht had the reserve champion.

In the breeding sheep show, Jeff Martin had the champion ram, the champion ewe, and the overall grand champion. Martin showed Dorset breeding sheep.

Doug Martin had the reserve champion ram with a Cheviot and Gina Montes showed the reserve champion ewe and reserve grand champion with the Oxford breed.

High Show Supreme Champion Beef

BY LISA RISSER

EPHRATA (Lancaster) — Babes, named so because he acts like a baby, came through like a champion Thursday night at the Ephrata Fair's beef show to be named supreme champion overall. Nicki High of Elizabethtown is the owner of Babes, a 1,080-pound Chianina-Angus cross.

High, who also showed the grand champion at the Lancaster County 4-H Fair earlier this year, has been showing steers since she was 9 years old. She is the 15-year-old daughter of of Shirley Burris and Larry High of Lititz.

Judge Bob Hess described her preview steer as being moderate in frame size and a thick and meaty kind of steer.

The champion sale steer was a 1,270-pound mediumweight shown by Heather Yoder, the 13-year-old daughter of Galen and Marian Yoder of Denver.

Yoder's steer, also a Chi-Angus cross, immediately caught Hess's eye upon entering the showring. "He's a thick and meaty steer and ideal in frame size for his market condition," Hess reasoned.

BY LISA RISSER

EPHRATA (Lancaster) — Although the sun never showed its face Wednesday for the Ephrata Fair's dairy show, the day did shine for Greg T. Supplee whose cow, Glenmoore Citamatt Sunny, was selected as supreme champion.

The senior two-year-old is rated VG 86 and is a Sir Glen-ridge Citamatt daughter out of Glen-moore King Suds. Sunny was the champion Holstein and selected as having the best udder in her breed.

Supplee, the 16-year-old son of Glenn and Rita Supplee of Hopeland, is a member of the Cloister FFA Chapter.

J. Matthew Wanner of Navron showed the reserve champion Holstein with his six year old, Con-Noll Very Shari.

Judge Alan Hostetter selected as the grand champion Jersey the junior two year old shown by Brian R. Sauder. Mar-Bett Pacesetter Kate is a Yankee FW Chief daughter out of Abby-Dale Pacesetter Ginger. The reserve champion Jersey also was owned by Sauder, his summer yearling.

The grand champion honors in the Ayrshire division went to the five-year-old cow owned by John Gerhart of Reinholds. Cocalico Amy is out of Cocalico Stars Annabel with Conebella Rumpelstiltskin as her sire. Heather Becker's senior yearling, GR Johnny's Gwen, was chosen as reserve champion Ayrshire.

The lone Brown Swiss entrant was exhibited by Tom Zartman. Meadow Hill Johnny D Pretty ET, a senior calf, was the champion of that breed.

Hickoryvale Farm Is Maryland's Outstanding Holstein Breeder

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — The Maryland Holstein Association presented their Outstanding Senior Holstein Breeder Award to Hickoryvale Farm of Middletown.

In 1922, Ira D. Ifert and his family moved to an 186-acre farm in Middletown, where Hickoryvale still operates today. The first introduction to registered Holsteins came in 1924 when two calves were purchased for sons Lee and Charles. These calves came from a neighbor Elmer Shafer. As the younger sons, Merhle, Page and David became old enough for 4-H projects, more and more registered animals entered the herd and gradually the herd became all registered through these animals and their offspring.

Soon the herd began to make a name for itself in Frederick County and eventually the Hickoryvale prefix became recognized nationally. In the early years, Dunloggin Progressor (eventually to become a Gold Medal Sire), acquired from Dunloggin farms, was used extensively and left about 40 daughters in the herd. They would help build the foundation upon which future Dunloggin bred bulls would build. Curtiss Candy Della Lad was probably the most well-known of the bulls. He was responsible for two Hickoryvale bred and owned All-American Get of Sire nominations as well as two All-American Produce of Dam nominations, also bred and owned.

The show ring became a place where Hickoryvale cattle enjoyed considerable success on a state as well as a national level. They bred a number of All-Maryland and Res. All Maryland winners including members of the All-Maryland Sr. Get in 1960, 1961, 1963, and 1964. This group was Reg. All-Maryland in 1962. Twice they showed the grand champion female at the Maryland State Fair.

On a national level, Hickoryvale-bred cattle accounted for no less than 14 All-American nominations from 1947 through 1960 includin 1 All-American, 1 Res. All-American, and 1 High Honorable All-American. Several of these cattle were exhibited by Harden Farms of New York where Hickoryvale cattle were to make quite an impact, mainly through their sons such as Harden Farms Aaggie Keystone and Harden Farms Duke Aaggie.

Merchandising was also a part of the program. The Iferts consigned to the Frederick County sales consistently and sent cattle to sales throughout the region and to National Sales as well as exporting cattle to Puerto Rico and South America. Locally there was a good market for well-bred bulls and many neighbors were able to take advantage of this superior breeding program through the purchase of a Hickoryvale bull. In all, they bred or developed six Gold Medal Sires, five Silver Medal Production Sires, and three Silver Medal Type Sires. Included in these were four that eventually entered A.I. through Md. ABC, most notably Hickoryvale BB Lad (out of a Della Lad dtr.) and Meadow Springs Baron Aim.

Russell Wachter presenting the 1988 Outstanding Senior Holstein Breeder Award on behalf of Clovertop Farm, Inc., to Hickoryvale Farm represented by brothers Page, Merhle and David Ifert.

Other milestones include being one of the early herds to participate in an official herd classification program in the county, being the high herd in Maryland for fat, having a homebred state milk leader, and qualifying for the Progressive Breeder's Registry Award for 17 years.

Merhle and Page Ifert, two of the 11 children (6 girls and 5 boys) have been the sole operators of the farm since 1956 when their youngest brother, David, left to begin farming on his own. Older brother Charles left the farm earlier and eventually began a registered herd that was always among the production leaders in Frederick County. Merhle, Page, and their father, Ira, all have served as president of the Frederick County Holstein Club as well as on the Board of Directors.

More recently, they have had two bulls enter A.I. and are now currently being sampled. The majority of the milking herd has been sold locally and should provide the foundation for an outstanding herd in the future.

Calf Nomination Deadline Is Extended For Sale

LEESPORT (Berks) — The deadline to nominate calves to the Dutch Country Calf Sale has been extended to September 30, 1988, reports sale chairman, Sheila Miller. The sale is being sponsored by the Berks County Cattlemen's Association and cattle producers from adjacent counties. The Dutch Country Calf Sale will be held on October 22, 1988 at the Lebanon County Fairgrounds, conveniently located south of Lebanon near major highways (Routes 72, 422, and 322). Sale time is 1:30 p.m.

"To date, more than a dozen beef breeders have signed up calves for the sale," reports Miller. "Crossbred and purebred steers, along with purebred heifers, will be offered." Calves must have been born after January 1, 1988 to be eligible, she said.

Miller noted that cash prizes will be awarded to the top grading entries in purebred/crossbred categories. "We will be breaking out groups of calves according to sex and breed," she explained. "A minimum of five entries will be needed to make up a separate group. A cash award of $15 will go to the consignor of the top grading animal in its category."

Grading of the calves will be begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday morning. "York Countian Bill Hollaway will grade the calves in their pens," said Miller. "There will not be a show."

Auctioneer for the sale is Harry Bachman of Annville. A free lunch will be provided to all registered buyers and consignors.

"We ask consignors to have their calves halter broken and in compliance with standard health requirements as indicated on the nomination form," said Miller. "There is a lot of interest in 4-H and FFA projects here in southeastern Pennsylvania. We want young people interested in showing steers and heifers to be able to buy cattle from local producers. It will also be an opportunity for local feeders to buy small lots of quality calves. This sale will help bring the buyers and the sellers together in Dutch Country for a day."

Miller encouraged cattle producers to contact her for more information or nomination forms. Call 215-589-5617.

Arthur McAllister, president for the association, presented the award to Purcell, who resides in Nottingham, and said that her writing best exemplied indepth research on important issues to farmers. A 1986 graduate of the University of Delaware, Purcell is the wife of Edward L. Purcell and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brewer, Oxford.

Featured speaker for the event, Robert McFarland, former National Security Adviser, told the association that the next five to ten years will result in a shift away from world domination by two super powers to five powers (U.S., U.S.S.R., Europe, China, and Japan) that will dominate the world economy. He predicted by the year 2010 we will see a sharp decline in the Soviet economy and that the U.S.S.R. will slip to the fifth position and continue to slide proving that 70 years of Marxism has not been successful. He believes that Gorbachev's efforts to iniatiate a market economy into the Soviet Union will fail because the framework is not there for a market-based economy to meet with success.

McFarland predicted uncontrolled population growth that exceeds economical growth in the countries of Argentina, Egypt and Mexico, which will result in 40% unemployment, violence and turmoil on the U.S. southern border and in the Middle East.

For more than a century, PennAg has been serving the agriculture community. For agribusinesses PennAg offers government relations, technical services such as assistance in complying with FDA requirements, educational conferences and workshops, media publicity promoting ag industries contributions, a monthly magazine, reference guide for members, collection, insurance and printing services.

The PennAg association elected the following officers: Jack Dreibelbis of Agway, Inc., president; John W. Sutton of Lovatt & Co., Inc., first vice president; Janet Hines of Hines Food Store, second vice president; Edwin A. New Tradition For Reading Dairy Champions

BY PAT PURCELL

READING (Berks) — As one tradition ends, hopefully, another has begun with the 1988 Reading Fair Dairy show.

The Rue-Hel Farms of Mohrsville, owned by Elwood and Ruth Ohlinger, has been home to many Reading Fair Holstein show champions. Their children Cathy and Connie exhibited the Rue-Hel registered Holsteins during their 4-H careers. But Cathy and Connie have outgrown 4-H and for them bringing home the rosettes from the fair is a tradition which is over. But thanks to the Ohlingers a new tradition may take its place.

Throughout the years many competitors have taken home the ribbons and rosettes won at the Reading Fair Dairy Shows, but no one has taken home a trophy. For the first time, the 1988 Holstein dairy show winners were able to take home trophies made possible through the sponsorship of Rue-Hel Farms. These were the first trophies ever awarded to the Reading Fair Dairy show champions.

"We had talked about it for a longtime and we felt bad that the kids in the dairy show did not get trophies for showing a champion like the kids did showing other livestock. So, since our children were out of 4-H, we decided this would be the year to do it," explained Ruth Ohlinger.

Also, for the first time trophies were presented to the champion showman and fitters, thanks to trophy sponsor, Keith Buch, also of Mohrsville.

Taking home the Holstein grand champion trophy was Andrew Bicksler who won with his 4-year-old, Russelldale Chairman Destiny. Show judge Dale Olver, Atlantic Breeders Sire Analyst, admired the foreudder attachment of this excellent mammary system and also the correctness in the hind legs.

Jeffrey Davis took the reserve grand championship in the Holstein competition with Daview Pete Ginger.

Remsburg Receives Maryland Distinguished Service Award

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — This year, the Distinguished Service Award presented by the Maryland Holstein Association, went to J. Homer Remsburg.

After graduating from the University of Maryland in 1917, Remsburg served as a Flight Instructor with the Navy Bombing Squadron at Pensacola, Florida. Two years later he returned to the Middletown Valley. In 1926 he purchased the farm which had been in the Remsburg family for five generations. In 1920 he married Abby McCardell, a granddaughter of Adrian McCardell, one of the three pioneer Holstein breeders in Frederick County.

The Maryland Distinguished Service Award presented to the J. Homer Remsberg family which include wife Sarah, daughter Carol, sons Mac and Jack, granddaughter Barbara Fisher, daughter-in-law Marcia and great-grandchildren, Ros, Charity, Ashley and John. The trophy was sponsored by the A. Doty Remsburg Memorial Fund presented by his on Denny, daughter Lois and wife Helen.

Homer and Abby raised four children: Carol, Joyce, J. Homer Jr. (Jack), and Adrian McCardell (Mac). All four of the children went on to college; three to the University of Maryland and one to William and Mary. They had 13 grandchilden. In 1969, J. Homer married his present widow Sarah, who is surrounded by 13 great-grandchildren.

Upon returning home from Florida, he started to organize Frederick County as a Holstein county. He helped bring together the Frederick County Holstein Association as well as help organize the State Association. On the county level, he served as secretary-treasurer for 40 years and sale manager as well. He was the state president for 15 years. For the National Association, he served as president for two years, vice president for three years and director for 16.

Homer bred and developed a fine Holstein herd at Locvale Farms. This was the first officially classified Holstein herd in Maryland and home of the first cow in Maryland to be officially classified "Excellent." He bred the 1950 All-American four-year-old, Locvale Master Marcy, shown by Harden Farms in New York. Homer was also a pioneer of calfhood vaccination. He pioneered calfhood vaccination into brucellosis free herd. The Loc Vale herd was dispersed in 1973.

He occupied his life with many agricultural related organizations. He taught Vocational Ag (FFA) at the Middletown High School for 15 years. Homer was also a National Holstein judge and judged shows in Puerto Rico and various South American countries. The Maryland Artificial Breeding Association was started by a committee of which he was a member and later served on its board. The Maryland PDCA was organized in 1946 and he was its president until his retirement. Homer also served two years as president of the Purebred Dairy Cattle Association of America.

In 1960, he was appointed the Maryland Governor Tawes to act as chairman of a Commission to Study the Advisability and Necessity of Establishing a Maryland State Department of Agriculture. The Maryland State Legislature approved the Commission Report in 1961.

Homer authored a 230-page book entitled, History and Development of Holstein Cattle in Frederick County, Maryland. He personally knew everyone included in the book. His involvement reached out into his community as well. He was very active in church and civic organizations as well as being honored numerous times by his peers in agriculture.

If we were less concerned about how our products perform for you, we could cut our research - or do a lot less.

Our investment in 2,700 acres - and in livestock, buildings, equipment and people - isn't to be sneezed at.

Neither is the investment in our research laboratories and the people who work in them. Nor what it takes to run a field-research program on cooperating farms and ranches in many states.

But cutting corners in research and in other ways wouldn't make much sense. It isn't the price per ton you pay for MoorMan's Mintrate® or Premix-trate® that counts - it's how efficiently these highly concentrated MoorMan Products can help you turn grain and roughage into growth, gains or milk.

Distinguished Service Award Won By Shirk

LANCASTER — Glenn A. Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Agent, is one of 107 Agents in the United States who received Distinguished Service Awards at the 73rd Annual Meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents. The meeting was held in Charlotte, North Carolina in August.

James Welshans, County Extension Director, Dauphin County, and State Awards Committee Chairman, said Shirk was honored "for his outstanding educational contributions to Pennsylvania agriculture."

The recognition program highlights the annual meeting where nearly 2,500 people were in attendance. The program included speakers, tours and business meetings designed to improve the educational skills of the agricultural agents. Included in the attendance figures were spouses, children, life members and visitors.

Two other Pennsylvania agents, Doyle Thomas, Susquehanna County and William Reagan, Franklin County, received similar awards.

Shirk received the award for his assistance to the dairy industry in Lancaster County and his educational programs for the County's 1,900 dairy farmers. His program emphasis ranges from feed production and dairy housing to herd management, marketing and business management. Known as an advocate of "getting better before getting bigger," Shirk conducts schools on dairy nutrition, udder health, reproduction and financial management.

Shirk was born and raised in Drumore Township, Lancaster County and graduated from Solanco High School. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Penn State and started his Extension career in 1961 in Somerset County. He served as an Extension Agent in Snyder and Chester Lounites and came to Lancaster County in 1979. Glenn and his wife Carol Lee live near Landisville.

Schraders Named Maryland's Outstanding Junior Breeders

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — The Outstanding Junior Breeders for 1988 were Bruce and Ann Schrader of Chestertown. Bruce and Ann are partners on the Schrader family farm just south of Chestertown, Md., where they have operated since 1971. As a youth in 4-H and FFA, Bruce was outstanding in dairy judging and highlighted his judging experience as a member of Maryland's State 4-H dairy judging team. This group narrowly missed being national champions by a few points at the Columbus contest.

The Schraders have three boys, Brian, Brad and Brett. Brian is active in 4-H and participates in judging and showing. The Schraders have been very active supporters of the 4-H program and the Holstein Club in Queen Anne's County, hosting barn meetings, picnics, judging practices and filling several offices in the local Holstein Club. In 1972, Bruce served as President of the Maryland State FFA Chapter and is currently serving as President of the Queen Anne's County Holstein Club.

Ann plays a very vital role in this organization by keeping all of the financial records. She also gives the vital back up support to Bruce in areas that need a woman's touch such as assembling information for meetings and activities that they become involved in. Their approach to their business is very much a team effort.

They milk 170 Registered Holsteins and last year's herd average, DHI, was 19,094 milk, 4.2%, 804 Fat. In 1983, their herd was first in the state for large herds with an average of 20,741 milk, 4.0%, 830 fat. This herd has been known for its high butterfat production and has consistently produced at a high level with 4.0% or higher fat.

Bruce credits this achievement to a strong background of Pawnee Farm Arlinda Chief blood and close attention to quality forage production. Their farm is cropped intensively with rye for silage followed by double crop corn and alfalfa for a hay crop.

The close management on their farm has earned the Schraders the Queen Anne's County Outstanding Herdsmen Award for four of the last five years. This award is based on several criteria including number of cows milked, herd average for production, cull rate, days open to first breeding, calving interval, age at first calving and services per conception.

Use of outstanding A.I. sires has been a part of the program for quite a while. Currently daughters of Cal Clark Board Chairman, Harmony Corner Simon, and Glenafton Enhancer are the young stars of the herd; particularly an Enhancer two-year-old with a cow index of $181. Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation is the sire of two of their six Excellents, one at 91 points, 2E and three 30,000 lbs. records, and the other at 92 points and 3E. They have completed records to 34,000 lbs. milk and a four-year-old has just completed a 1300 lb. fat record. A total of 36 cows currently in the herd have produced records over 1000 lb. butterfat.

Bruce's approach to breeding cows is to mate the strengths of a sire to the needs of the cow. Animal Analysis is a breeding tool used successfully on this herd. Current sires in use are Coldsprings Levi, Dixiecrat, Count, Mandingo, and Gambler. Like many herds in Maryland, this herd switched from grades to registered Holsteins through the introduction of 4-H calves to the herd.

Anne and Bruce Schrader received the 1988 Outstanding Junior Breeder Award from Buddy and Charlotte Hill, Jr. With them are their children Brian, Bradley and Brett.

Select Sires Dedicates Building To Kellgren

PLAIN CITY, OH — Howard C. Kellgren is one of a privileged few in the A.I. industry to have a building named in his honor. On July 27, 1988 the Select Sires Howard C. Kellgren Production Center opened at Plain City, OH. A crowd of 2,000 from coast to coast witnessed the dedication. It was an opportune time to pay tribute to Kellgren, Select's Vice President and Director of Production.

Kellgren has devoted his career to the A.I. industry for 37 years. He has made signifitant contributions in research and development and was an early pioneer in initiating the frozen semen system we know today.

In 1969, Kellgren began work for Select Sires, now the largest A.I. federation in the free world. He is repsonsible for overseeing all aspects of sire health programs; sire management; semen processing, evaluation, storage and shipping; and research.

Prior to his 18 year tenure at Select's national headquarters, Kellgren was assistant manager at the Louisiana Dairy Improvement Center. While in Louisiana he was responsible for pioneering one of the early frozen semen programs. In addition he also conducted research contributing to the advancement of horse A.I. and the use of semen extenders. While at this post, he also researched the effects of heat stress on semen quality.

Kellgren's success can be attributed to his willingness to face challenges and grasp new opportunities for the advancement of the A.I. industry.

Kellgren believes, "We must be willing to commit the necessary investment and enthusiasm in research and development and be willing to gamble with new ideas. This is necessary if we are to make a significant impact on agriculture's future."

The Howard C. Kellgren Production Center is a monument to Kellgren's devotion to producing a quality product for the genetic improvement of dairy and beef herds world-wide. The Howard C. Kellgren Production Center consists of 33,580 square feet and was designed and engineered by Jerry Wille of Curry, Wille and Associates, Ames, Iowa. The new state--of-the-art production facility consists of 53 comfort box stalls, ranging in size from 13'5"x13'4" to 13'5"x20'1". Fifteen of the box stalls are air-conditioned and maintained at 70°F. The remaining 38 pens are kept under constant computerized climate control. Other features in the new facility include three sick bay pens, a foot bath, electronic scale, formal welcome area, conference room and kitchen.

In recognizing his colleague's achievements, Richard Chichester, Select Sires General Manager comments, "Kellgren has provided 18 years of dedicated service and has always pursued excellence. It is only appropriate the building be named in is honor."

Kellgren was born and raised in New Jersey and received a Bachelor of Science in Dairy Production and a Masters of Science in Dairy Physiology from Louisiana State University. He and his wife, Mary Nell, currently reside in Marysville, OH.

Order No.4 Base Milk Price $12.26 For August

ALEXANDRIA, VA — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine today announced an August 1988 base milk price of $12.26 per hundredweight and an excess milk price of $11.00. The weighted average August price was $12.29 and the butterfat differential for the month was 15.6 cents. The base milk price was up 32 cents from July but was 51 cents lower than last August. The weighted average price was up 35 cents from July but was 48 cents lower than a year earlier. The gross value of August producer milk was $60.1 million, compared to $65.3 million a year ago.

Mr. Shine said that producer receipts totaled 490.4 million pounds during August. The average daily delivery of 2,574 pounds per producer decreased 25 pounds or 1.0 percent from last August. Class I producer milk totaled 251.1 million pounds and accounted for 51.22 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, compared with 49.72 percent in August 1987. Base milk accounted for 94.48 percent of total producer milk receipts in August compared with 93.71 percent last year. The average butterfat test of producer milk was 3.50 percent, up slightly from 3.49 percent last August.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 206.3 million pounds during August, a decrease of 0.7 percent from a year earlier after adjustment to eliminate variation due to calendar composition.

Farmers Face Higher Prices For Milk And Feed

WESTMINSTER, VT. — Low farm prices and high feed costs produced lots of red ink for dairy farmers this past spring. Since feed prices are not expected to decline until next year's harvest, the outlook for milk prices is of unusually critical concern.

"Short supplies of corn and soybeans will hold feed costs at current levels until next fall," noted Steve Kerr, executive director of The Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives. "The cost of dairy feed over the next twelve months is expected to average 25% more than last year. "Fortunately, farm prices for milk are rising substantially and will offset a good share of those higher costs."

While the drought has sharply reduced the nation's feed grain crop, it has also reduced milk production. Strong commercial demand for cheese and non-fat dry milk has thus forced buyers in the midwest to bid the market price of milk up in order to secure adequate volumes for their products.

The August M-W (the basic market price which moves blend prices up and down in the Northeast) climbed $.65/cwt. from its April low of $10.33/cwt., and caused blend prices in the Northeast to jump by over $1.00/cwt. between June and August.

"The cheese market largely moves the M-W nowadays," commented Kerr. "Since April, block cheese prices have risen by $.15/lb. That's the equivalent of $1.50/cwt. for milk. The M-W clearly has room to rise even more than it has."

Most analysts believe that the M-W will rise at least another $5.00/cwt. between August and October, and will reach $11.50/cwt.

"An $11.50/cwt. M-W should yield a November blend price for the 21st zone of $13.00/cwt. and $12.82/cwt. in Orders 1 and 2, respectively. For that reason, it appears that milk prices this fall and early winter will offset most, if not all, of the higher feed costs that will prevail."

Milk prices normally rise in the fall in response to seasonal supply/demand changes. Spring prices cause the greatest worry because rising production and declining consumption generally push the M-W down to the support price.

"For the past ten years," Kerr noted, "the M-W has fallen to, or below, the support price then in effect. Although the drought may well mean that milk supplies next spring are tighter than normal, it it clear that farm prices will decline as we approach June. The only question, is by how much?"

Spring milk prices are very difficult to predict at this time. The drought may produce lean supplies and a relatively strong M-W. On the other hand, production in California and Texas continued to grow in August, suggesting that a spring flush may yet develop. Such a flush, regardless of its origin, would depress the M-W and Northeastern blend prices.

"We were particularly worried about farm prices next spring and told Congress so when they were considering the drought relief bill. We felt that it was unwise to gamble on low milk prices then when farmers will still be struggling with high feed costs. Congress' decision to freeze the support price in 1989 at this year's level and increase it $.50/cwt. during the critical flush months of April. May and June was a recognition of that concern."

Blend price in the Northeast will, over the twelve months of 1989, likely average $.20/cwt. higher than they would have, had Congress not legislated the temporary increase next spring.

"That's not a panacea, but it is worth about $2,000.00 to a farmer making one million pounds of milk per year," Kerr noted. "It's also an important component of a broader trend. Over-order premiums from various sources now average about $.60/cwt. in the Northeast. Tight supplies should allow farmers to maintain those premiums through next spring. Such premiums, when combined with a relatively strong M-W, should help most Northeastern dairy farmers over the hump."

"The key to the future, however, is the next Farm Bill. The buy-out and the drought have changed the environment within which dairy farmers will negotiate the next dairy program," Kerr observed.

"For the past ten years, Washington's overriding concern has been to reduce milk production and budget expenditures. That is no longer the problem.

"By eliminating the Secretary's authority to cut the support price next year and requiring a temporary increase of $.50/cwt. next spring, we have also - for the first time in five years - stabilized farm prices. If we can develop a program to manage supplies so that excess production does not trigger further farm price cuts, we can maintain a tight market nationally and a relatively strong M-W. We can then use what will likely continue to be very tight supplies of milk in the Northeast to enhance the over-order premiums that have come to be paid in the past ' 've months.

"The key is not the Northeastern market, however, it is the national market. Only a federal dairy program which prevents excess milk production from being put on the market will allow us to maintain adequate blend prices and significant premiums here at home."

Muller Receives Research Award

University Park (Centre) — Dr. Lawrence D. Muller, professor of animal science at Penn State, was honored with the 1988 MSD Agvet Dairy Management Research award at the 83rd annual meeting of the American Dairy Science Association in Edmonton, Alberta, June 28.

Sponsored by MSD AGVET, a division of the Merck & Company, Inc., the award recognizes Muller's outstanding research in dairy cattle and dairy farm management. Among his areas of research are fermented colostrum for calves, calf housing, brown midrib mutants of corn, forage preservation, protein nutrition of calves and lactating cows, induced parturition, and buffers for lactating cows with calves.

In the area of calf nutrition, Dr. Muller has investigated the influence of various chemicals and bacterial cultures on the preservation of colostrum, the effect of methionine hydroxy analog on calf performance and the nutritional requirements of cold-housed calves.

Dr. Muller was among the first to evaluate the effect of brown midrib corn silage on dry matter intake, digestibility and milk yield in early lactating cows. He and his students were among the first to study the effects of buffer addition to dairy cattle rations. His work has led to the adoption of sound management practices among dairy farmers.

His current research includes feeding systems and strategies for young calves, protected amino acid nutrition for lactating cows, mechanisms of action of bovine somatotropin on milk production, milk composition and reproductive performance as well as the interaction of extra dietary nutrients and somatotropin treatment on lactational performance.

An author or coauthor of numerous books and articles in professional journals and the popular press, he also is a frequent speaker at conferences and association meetings. Dr. Muller teachers undergraduate courses in dairy nutrition and management. He has received the Ralston Purina Teaching and the Outstanding Advisor Awards from the American Dairy Science Association.

Kansas Economist

business will contract farmers for inputs to production, for processing, and for marketing.

Even with this thinking, Flinchbaugh doesn't think the family farm is dead. "People have the notion that large means corporate -- bad, and small means family -- good," Flinchbaugh said. "But that's just not true. Ninety-two percent of the farms that grossed one-half million dollars last year,--31,000 of them--were owned by families. I think the family farm is alive and well. Not the romantic three cows, three sows, a flock of chickens and a billy goat. But an integrated farm system that uses all the advanced technology and spreads the risks through the system by the contract route."

Marketing Humanely Produced Products

Another speaker, Gail Black, Marketing Consultant for the Humane Society of the United States, said, "I'm excited because I've seen the big market out there for products raised sustainably and humanely. And the market needs are not being met. I've had a part in some aspects of this marketing where we've seen a 300 percent growth in four months. When people are informed of how the products are grown and where they come from they will pay the additional cost to produce them. People do care about the chemical input into their foods and they don't want animals to suffer," Black said.

So Black doesn't tell farmers they are doing it wrong. She says, "Look, there are other ways to do it. And here's what you can expect from the market if you supply what the market wants."

In addition, Black scheduled a slide presentation prepared by Dr. Michael Fox, vice president, bioethics and farm animals, Humane Society of the United States. In the script, Fox said that many problems have arisen in agriculture because of the food and fiber industry's noted miracles of high-volume production and low direct cost to consumers. "While consumers are accustomed to paying relatively less for their food than in other countries, there are many hidden costs that are not yet apparent in the marketplace," Fox said.

Hidden Costs

Fox listed these hidden costs as high input costs and a vast labor force from the food industry that depends on the farming community. Fox also listed symptoms of present farming problems as: surpluses, soil erosion, diminishing deep water resources, increased input cost,decreased profits, and pollution of groundwater. "All this means that a change in agricultural practices and in land use in general is as vital as better controls on industrial pollution, sewage treatment and handling of toxic wastes," Fox said. "It also means a change in consumer habits. Many nations will have to change their eating habits and farmers, the crops they produce and market if the farm problem is to be averted."

From the prospective of animal rights and human responsiblities, Fox said there are four basic principles to humane animal husbandry and holistic/preventative veterinary medicine. These principles are: right breeding, right rearing to accommodate socialization or bonding to human caretakers, right nutrition and right environment.

Fox believes the seeds of a new vision for agriculture are being sown, and sees agriculturalists as well as environmentalists developing an attitude of respect and empathy toward the earth and all its processes as part of this new vision.

Ag Budget News

Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff told the industry group he believes agriculture will get proper funding when lawmakers resume work on the state budget in the coming days.

"We've had a bumper crop of politics surrounding the budget this year, but funding for important agricultural programs will be restored by House Bill 1480, which is the supplemental budget bill," Wolff said.

Wolff also told convention delegates the Department of Agriculture is making a conscious effort to improve the Bureau of Plant Industry. He pointed out the bureau is staffed by very qualified individuals and has computerized feed, fertilizer and lime programs to analyze reports faster and more accurately.

In addition, the Department of Agriculture has combined and cross-trained feed, fertilizer and lime inspectors and pesticide inspectors. Four new Agronomic Product Inspectors have started work since April and the Bureau of Plant Industry has launched a new inspection program for feed mills.

Wolff also pointed out new efforts in pesticide safety and Integrated Pest Management, "Under a contract with DER, we are preparing several educational programs for farmers concerning pesticide safety and IPM. In addition, we have proposed, and Governor Casey has accepted, a plan to develop a new and comprehensive program for Integrated Pest Management."

Addressing drought concerns, Wolff predicted overall effects are not yet known and he indicated that while 78 million acres were idled due to government programs going into the drought, 54 million acres were in short-term set-aside and much of that land could be returned to production. He also predicted consumers would see a 1% hike in retail prices from the drought this year and he appealed to the food industry to avoid using the drought as an excuse for unwarranted price increases.

PAFC Annual Meeting Set September 27-28

HARRISBURG — "Cooperation in a Changing Environment" is the theme for the 1988 annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives, according to organization Executive Director Kathy E. Gill.

Slated at the Harrisburg Sheraton-West September 27-28, the meeting kicks off with issues forum at noon on the 27th. This annual meeting marks the 55th birthday of the organization, which was established in 1933 to facilitate understanding of the cooperative form of business. That remains PAFC's primary mission; one major educational event is this issues forum.

Keynote for the forum is Dr. Bruce Anderson, agricultural economist at Cornell University. Anderson, a cooperative specialist, recently spent a year in Europe studying their cooperative system.

"Can Cooperatives Compete in the Changing Environment?" is Anderson's topic. An articulate and provocative speaker, Anderson will outline a series of challenges to Northeastern cooperatives, dairy cooperatives in particular.

Break-out sessions follow, focusing on "Biotechnology -- Do We Need It?", "Agrichemicals and Groundwater," and "Adapting to the Competitive Environment."

The biotechnology break-out session features Jack Doyle, Environmental Policy Institute, taking the "con" position and representatives of Agway and the pharmaceutical industry explaining why agriculture needs biotech.

The second break-out session, dealing with groundwater, features a noted researcher from the Rodale Institute outlining their research on low-input agriculture, a geologist from the US Geological Service outlining vulnerable groundwater and a representative from Pennsylvania's Department of Environmental Resources explaining the Commonwealth's position.

The final break-out session deals with how cooperatives can adapt to today's competitive environment. Speakers include representatives from USDA's Agricultural Cooperative Service and the new National Bank for Cooperatives.

The evening is highlighted by the annual awards banquet, which recognizes an outstanding cooperative educator and a person who has made significant contributions to cooperatives in Pennsylvania.

The business session, set Wednesday morning, follows the October Cooperative Month kick-off breakfast and features presentations by PAFC Executive Director Gill; PAFC President Robert M. Dever, assistant general manager of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative; and Penn State College of Agriculture Department Head Dr. Sam Curtis.

For registration information, contact PAFC at 717-232-7232. Full conference registration is $115 and includes all meals and conference materials; registration for Tuesday only is $95; registration for the Tuesday banquet is $65. Special rates are available for educators, extension agents and government representatives.

PAFC is a trade association representing about 40 rural and agricultural cooperatives with member-owned and operating territory that includes Pennsylvania.

Scott Named 1988 Dairy Shrine Distinguished Cattle Breeder

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Hope Scott, owner of Ardrossan Farms in Villanova, Delaware County, has been named the 1988 Dairy Shrine Distinguished Dairy Cattle Breeder. She will receive the award at the 25th annual Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show Recognition Banquet on September 28 in Harrisburg.

Scott has long been recognized for her work with one of the top producing Ayrshire herds in the nation. Last year, the herd average on 107 cows was 21,027 pounds of milk and 870 pounds of butterfat. In the past 78 years, Ardrossan Farms has bred 124 cows that made over 100,000 pounds of milk and/or 4,000 pounds of butterfat.

Scott has managed the farm started by her father for nearly 40 years. Management skills have always been a strength in Ardrossan's success. Ardrossan was the first herd in the United States to be certified free of brucellosis and holds the original Pennsylvania brucellosis-free certificate. Today, their health program includes monthly reproduction checks and a vaccination program as recommended by the New Bolton Center.

"Few owners are as completely knowledgeable about the many details of their farming operation as Mrs. Scott," said Tom Whittaker, auctioneer and sales manager in Brandon, VT, "and still fewer know their cows as well."

Heinz Mielke, Scott's herdsman for 12 years, said, "She is personally involved with registering and selecting animals which are to be kept or sold. She spends hours studying pedigrees and going over farm records."

The results are obvious. Last year Ardrossan Farms had six 150,000 pound and twelve 100,000 pound milk lifetime certificates, as well as nineteen 800 pound butterfat certificates and thirty-nine 20,000 pound certificates. The herd also received its 28th Constructive Breeder Award, three Maurice Benson Memorial Protein Awards and the French Trophy for herds over 100 cows during 1987.

Over the past 78 years, Ardrossan Farm has bred 124 cows that made over 100,000 pounds of milk and/or 4,000 pounds of butterfat. Seven Ardrossan Ayrshires produced lifetime totals of more than 200,000 pounds of milk and/or 8,000 pounds of butterfat.

The prestious herd is known for more than the cows it has developed and sold. Over the years 24 Ardrossan-bred sires have entered allied industry service. Four bulls carrying the Ardrossan prefix are plus-proven sires today.

Scott was nominated for the Dairy Shrine honor by G.A. Bowling, a former West Virginia University professor, Purebred Dairy Cattle Association secretary and Strathglass Farm manager. "During the 60 years I have been associated with the purebred dairy cattle industry," explained Bowling, "I have known many great herds of pedigreed dairy cattle, their owners and managers. Not one could compare with 78 years of Ardrossan Farms."

RCMA Meets With Governor's Advisors

BATAVIA, N.Y.— RCMA President William Zuber with RCMA Attorney David P. O'Hara met Tuesday (Sept. 13) with representatives of Gov. Mario Cuomo's office and Agriculture and Markets Commissioner Donald Butcher regarding New York State's Senate Bill No. 9166, commonly known as the Dairy Farmer's Bill of Rights, which was vetoed Sept. 7 by the Governor.

According to Zuber, "We were very disappointed by the veto but we accepted the invitation to meet in Albany in order to see if there was any common ground that would produce legislation to protect farmers."

Zuber added, that "Dealers, particularly Farmland, have attempted to convince the Governor and the public that Senate Bill No. 9166 would prevent dealers from paying higher prices to farmers." In fact, said Zuber, "The exact opposite is true. The dealers want to use cash incentives to cause farmers to resign from RCMA. Once they destroy RCMA they will go back to their old practice of paying no premiums at all."

Syracuse attorney, O'Hara emphasized that "Federal legislation similar to Senate Bill No. 9166 contains the language proprietary dealers have advocated and that statute has been used as sword against farmers. That legislation was intended to protect farmers and ended up being amended by dealers to defeat its purpose. We want to be sure that opponents of Senate Bill No. 9166 are not able to the same thing here in New York."

"There are basic issues which need to be resolved. First, we don't believe legislation aimed at protecting farmers should be modified to regulate the activities of farmers and farm associations such as RCMA. Secondly, there is a provision in the federal statute which waters down the legislation and the opponents of the bull want it added. We do not want to defeat the purpose of this bill," Zuber added.

Zuber emphasized "That the meeting led to a good faith exchange of ideas which may result in legislation protecting farmers' rights, but there is a great deal of work to do."

Zuber also reviewed current RCMA activities and its efforts on behalf of Northeast dairy farmers:

RCMA Membership

RCMA membership continues to grow with 44 new members joining the organization in August. Every new member moves RCMA closer to its goal of higher over-order premiums for all its members.

RCMA Class I Differential

The RCMA Board of Directors has set an RCMA Class I Differential of $.75 per hundredweight for October and November. This action should result in an October pooled premium of $.30 per cwt., which is three time higher than the October 1987 premium.

Efforts to Increase Dairy Farm Income

A committee of RCMA dairy farmer directors met with representatives from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets to explore details of the Rogers-Allen Act. RCMA officials are also in contact with leaders in other states to seek ways to help prove the dairy situation throughout the region.

Work Begins in Order #36

RCMA will be moving into Order #36 (Western Pennsylvania and S.W. New York) to help producers in that area and to protect the organization's ability to maintain RCMA pricing in Western New York. This action is the result of requests by several producers in that area and the number of new processors that have come into Western New York due to the state removing the licensing laws that once protected Western New York producers.

Farmland Dairies

Farmland, by its refusal to pay the RCMA Class I Differential, continues to hold down RCMA premiums paid to all members. However, the list of Farmland shippers who are diverting their milk to handlers who do pay the RCMA Class I price, continues to grow.

men's revenues to the level of 1987, according to Fraher. For 1988 as a whole, figuring in assessments and premiums, Order 4 producers will realize a blend price about the same as they received in 1987. Current projections call for roughly the same average in 1989, Fraher added. Because feed costs are higher in the wake of the drought, many dairymen are worse off.

"At most, this combination has given dairy farmers a fighting chance," Fraher said.

Nationally, the rise in the M-W was prefigured by gains in cheese and nonfat dry milk prices. Since July 1, block cheddar cheese prices at the National Cheese Exchange have risen 12.25 cents to $1.2900 a pound. Nonfat dry milk prices have climbed 6-7 cents to 80-83 cents a pound. Sales have virtually depleted reserve supplies of both products held by the government's Commodity Credit Corporation.. The government is still buying surplus butter, however, which has risen only slightly in price.

The milk supply in the upper Midwest is about the same level as it was a year ago, when production was just beginning to rebound from the end of the whole herd buyout program. According to the latest USDA figures, dairymen in Wisconsin produced two percent more milk in August then they did a year ago, while Minnesota farmers produced one percent less. In the Northeast, Pennsylvania production was down one percent and New York's was unchanged.

Marchezak, Stiles, Yoder To Be Honored At All-American

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — Dairy breeders, exhibitors and show sponsors will receive special awards in conjunction with this year's silver anniversary of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show. The show is scheduled for September 25-30 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Three breeders are slated to receive commemorative plaques for their 25 consecutive years of participation during a special recognition banquet on September 28. They are John Marchezak of Twin Brook Farm, Bentleyville, Washington County, a Guernsey breeder; John Stiles & Son of Spring Valley Farm, Westminster, MD, Jersey breeders; and Samuel Yoder of Pinesedge Farm in Shoemakersville, Berks County, a Milking Shorthorn breeder.

John Walker, chairman of the 25th anniversary committee, said, "These farms have all been a major force in the dairy industry for many years. Their contributions to the All-American and their breeds have been significant and have resulted in expansion of the program, breed improvement and industry support."

Nine business sponsors will be honored at the banquet for their support since the All-American began in 1964. They include Agway, Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, R. Austin Backus, Pennsylvania Brown Swiss Breeders Association, Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club, Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association, Pennsylvania Holstein Association, Ralston Purina and Sire Power.

Walker explained, "Without the generous support of these sponsors, we would not be celebrating the silver anniversary of the All-American. Associations, individual farms and businesses involved in our dairy and allied industries have made possible the continuing success of the All-American in showing off our best and breeding improvement."

The All-American has long been recognized as the premier dairy show of the East. Its prestige is indicated by the fact that five of the six participating breed organizations have selected the All-American as the site of their national competition.

Many special activities have been arranged in conjunction with the 25th anniversary celebration. Sixty commercial exhibitors will display their products, 30 national flags will fly to honor international buyers and breeders, and a country craft show will be held.

For further information on the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show activities and awards, call 717-787-2905.

ducts and animals internationally."

Pennsylvania set a new food and agricultural export record of $203.2 million last year and the Department of Agriculture expects to break that record when this year's figures are compiled.

The 500 registered Holsteins, awaiting the start of their journey, will be shipped to farms in the Canaries.

"Up until now the people of the Canary Islands had to import their milk supply, primarily from Europe," Gov. Casey said. "With this shipment, Pennsylvania is contributing to the building of the Canary Islands' own domestic dairy industry."

The Pennsylvania Holstein Association, in cooperation with the Holstein Freisian Services of Vermont, organized the export program. Most of the animals are from Pennsylvania, although the association also canvassed the states of Ohio, New York, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Minnesota and Rhode Island to meet the demand for bred heifers.

The heifers were assembled for inspection and testing at the Holstein Association's farm near Middletown. Blood testing, required for overseas shipment, was conducted at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's laboratory in Summerdale.

"Dairy farming is the largest segment of Pennsylvania's leading industry," Gov. Casey said. "We appreciate what the dairy farms and agriculture mean to the people and to the economy of the state."

The September shipment of 500 heifers is the third installment of a record order of 2,700 animals to be exported to the Canary Islands. Earlier shipments departed from Middletown in June and August of 1987.

PA Dairy Farmers To Receive Promotion Update

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming) — The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC) is beginning its annual series of district meetings for Pennsylvania dairy producers. Current marketing trends, nutritional developments and ADADC's latest advertising strategies will be discussed.

ADADC staff will be on hand to answer questions and provide an overview of current and upcoming promotions, including the fall cheese campaign and a winter fluid milk campaign with a hot (chocolate) twist. Discussion will also be generated concerning the latest activities of Dairy Council, including research development and nutrition education.

All area dairy farmers are encouraged to attend these meetings to learn about their promotion investment. Specific district information can also be obtained by contacting ADADC toll-free at (800) ADA-MILK (in New York) or (800) HOT-MILK (in New Jersey or Pennsylvania).

The ADADC is a dairy promotion association funded by 20,000 dairy farmers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

They Said It Couldn't Be Done, But Denver Did It

BY LOU ANN GOOD

DENVER (Lancaster) — Critics said it couldn't be done. They said Denver was too small to have a fair, that they couldn't draw a crowd to make their efforts worthwhile.

They were wrong. This year about 23,000 people attended the fair in the little boro of Denver with its 2,500 population. "Sure," admits Randy Eshelman, president of the Denver Fair Committee, "we have so much competition, we need to come up with original ideas to capture attention, but we did it."

They did. No doubt about that. While they attracted crowds with such novelties as a jello eating contest and a wheelbarrow race, and reduced prices for rides on family night, their most flamboyant publicity was their cow chip poker game held last Saturday.

Plots of land measuring 3x5-feet were sold for $10 each. Eight o'clock Saturday morning, a cow was released to roam the designated area. The first plot of land to become fertilized by the cow won $500. It took twelve minutes for the cow to do his business on the plot claimed by Margaret Gensemer of Denver. She pocketed the prize money and the fair fund got an additional $500.

Eshelman admits that the idea for cow chip poker first came up three years ago. "We laughed and tossed it around a bit, but it took us three years to say, 'Yeah, let's go for it.'"

The community showed their enthusiasm for the sport by snapping up the shares in less than two hours after they were offered for sale.

"The lip sync talent show" is another big hit," Eshelman said. "It probably draws more people than our paid entertainment." It's a time when teens can imitate their favorite rock or contemporary singers.

Rain—that was the nighmare the fair committee was dreading. In the past, they've had more than their share of it. It seems every fair committee member has his or hers own horror story to tell. Said Phyliss Martz, publicity chairperson, "Last year, we had to call entrants at 2 a.m. to come and take their animals home. We were wearing hip boots and wading in water up to our knees to move them."

Kauffman said, "Despite putting every effort into fair preparations, weather is one thing we have no control over and it can sink the whole ship."

With trepidation the Denver faithful scanned weather reports. By Thursday, they thought they had it made. "The weather was exceeding good. We had record crowds," Eshelman reported. A spokesperson for the fire auxillary reported that they sold more food in one day than they did the whole of last year combined. She attributed the increase to the good weather.

But then Saturday came and brought a downpour. Eshelman reported, "The rain put a damper on it, but about 600 people stood in pouring rain to hear the Mudflaps on Saturday night."

As far as the livestock show, the town's sheep show has made an impressive showing. It's considered second largest in the county that holds eight fairs. "Terry Kauffman in a nutshell is what makes the sheep show successful," said Eshelman. He solicits entrants, draws up packets of information to keep everything running smoothly.

Besides all the up front duties, there are those behind the scenes duties such as putting the sheep to bed. And that's what Phyliss Martz does. "I pat their heads before turning off the lights. Each one got a personality of his own. And I get to know their names and remember the ones who return from the previous year."

Diligent hands at the Fire Company Ladies' Auxillary help keep the crowds supplied with hot dogs, hamburgers and french fries. And what do they like best about the fair? "The fun and the sun," they quip. Did they ever burn anything?

"Never," they answer. "We're too good of cooks for that."

On the outskirts of the prolific food stands, the Denver Baseball Team offers open pit ham and beef sandwiches. Lee Arment, overseeing the operation said customers say things such as "I've waited all year for one of these sandwiches."

Gerald Petery who is in charge of the Arts and crafts display proudly announced, "This year was bigger and better." He thinks the department offers special attraction since many people enjoy hobbies and like to exhibit then and explore others' workmanship.

Why do so many community people pour their efforts, talents and time into making the fair a success?

"Not for the money," Eshelman said.

He attaches it to phrases like community spirit and one event that the whole community can work together to make it a success.

He sums up the feelings of many of his coworkers: "The best thing about being involved in the fair is seeing it being born and rising out of the ground to be successful."

According to his cohorts who help make the fair successful, their efforts bring a lot of fun and laughs. And that makes it worthwhile.

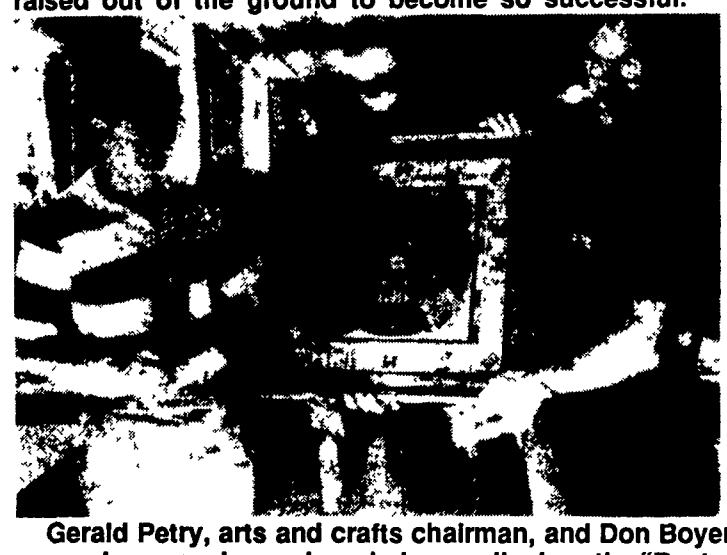
Lee Arment prepares the open pit barbecue sandwiches that receive raves from the crowd.

Six-year-old Kate Schreiter of Lititz gets a hug from a clown at the Trinity Methodist Church booth set up at the Denver Fair.

President of the Denver Fair Committee, Randy Eshelman, said "No one thought we could do it. No one encouraged us...It's been great seeing the fair being born and raised out of the ground to become so successful."



Gerald Petry, arts and crafts chairman, and Don Boyer, general concession and ag chairman, displays the "Best of the Show," a leather monopoly game.

The giant slide held fun for young and old alike.

The Long Green Line™

JOHN DEERE

Nothing runs like a Deere™

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

For most intents and purposes, the event is over.

Strings of clean, brushed cattle chew their cuds, resting in belly-deep beds of shiny straw. A forgotten, scruffy scrub brush lies abandoned on the wash rack's concrete floor. Grain tubs are neatly stacked, awaiting a final morning feeding.

Exposure to the dampness of misty September mornings has left crepe and tissue paper decorations limp and lifeless. Dust and fly specks tarnish the shiny-new finish on freshly-painted boards and pristine posterboard name signs.

Styrofoam cups, school books, a pair of sunglasses, water jug, tapes and fast food bag, empty save for a plastic knife and unused napkins, linger on the wrinkled, dusty tablecloth covering a collapsible camp table.

It is the last night of the county fair.

Kids are weary from too many lost hours of sleep, irregular meals, and heavy intake of junk foods. Adults likewise suffer fatigue and irritability of maintaining cattle at the fair and cattle at home, while juggling the normal round of minor equipment and livestock emergencies.

By fair's end, we snap and snarl, growl and grumble, at slightest cause. Parents and kids fast lose patience with one another.

"Tell me when we're having fun," sighs a dear friend, borrowing a bit of bumper-sticker wisdom.

We're all overdue a good laugh. Time to go, flip checks.

Checking out the blaring, glaring midway section has become a last-night antidote for fair frustrations, indulged in by this group of long-time exhibitors. Bent on anti-stress exercise, we bypass the tattooed lady and the snake man, deafening rock laser shows and a sky-high ferris wheel.

Where are the chickens?

Chicken flippin' is one of the goofier games to hit the midway stretch in awhile. A large round barbecue grill slowly rotates over plastic charcoal. Fake, rubber, dressed chickens are positioned by the player on a spring-loaded "launcher". When one of the half-dozen empty aluminum kettles circulating with the grill is stragetically located, the chicken-laden launcher is aimed at the kettle, and whacked with a heavy rubber-tipped gavel. Yessir, step right up, both chickens in the kettle on one play wins a big prize.

'Taint as easy as it sounds. But always good for a laugh.

Even tougher is the frog-in-the-lilypad version of flipping the chick. Limp, leggy, rubber frogs are launched toward lilypads rotating in water. Lilypads are smaller and shallower than the kettles, with scalloped sides. Winners must have the frog completely in the small lilypad - with no legs dangling outside.

And, then there's the gopher smack, or whatever it's called. When a bell sounds, heavy-duty plastic rodents repeatedly pop up randomly from five holes. Player must hit them with a mallet as they emerge; most hits in the given time period wins the fabulous prize. An especially appropriate game for farmers dueling with groundhogs in the fields.

I recall, as a kid, plunking down my money to participate in the irrestible lure of those little plastic ducks floating around the fair booths. Every one a prize winner. Those "prizes" pretty much cured for a lifetime my interest in midway games participation; my talents lie more in the noisy cheers for the players.

Only one more day of running back and forth, hauling home dirty and empty supplies, clothing and food containers. Soon, all will be a memory, save the half-bale of straw strewn through the entire house from pockets, cuffs and shoes.

So, on the last night of the county fair, there is little we all need more than the relaxation of shared, silly laughter. When the frustration and lost sleep is history, we have the fun to remember and savor.

And, that is what keeps us coming back.

York Fair Outstanding FFA'er, 4-H'er

Cecil D. Hedrick and Wendy Debnam received the York Fair FFA and 4-H Special Awards.

Debnam, an eight-year member of the Hanover 4-H Club was chosen for the scholarship award, which is sponsored by the York County Agricultural Society, by completing a blue form and a personal interview. Hedrick was selected to receive his FFA award, which is sponsored annually by the York Interstate Fair, by a committee consisting of Doris Kilgore of the Lincoln Intermediate Unit, John Smith of the York Fair Management, and Ed Heindel of the York Farm Credit office.

Hedrick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hedrick of Delta, is a senior at Kennard Dale High School, where he is the president of the school's FFA chapter. He also is the county's sentinel. Hedrick has earned chapter, county, area, regional, and state honors in such contests as parliamentary procedure, livestock judging, land judging, ag mechanics, and small engines as well as awards for exhibiting breeding and market hogs at the York Fair and state Farm Show.

Besides working on his father's farm, Hedrick also has worked on another farm and is now employed in the small gas engine shop of Bob Cooper in Airville.

The award that Hedrick received is an expense-paid trip to the National FFA Convention and American Royal Livestock Show, which are held in Kansas City, Mo., during the week of November 7.

Debnam is the president of the York County 4-H Council and a member of the 4-H Lamb Club and Senior 4-H Exchange. MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Several readers have asked about drying foods in the microwave. A reader from Lake Park, Iowa, asked specifically about drying tomatoes and onions.

If you read ahead, you'll notice that I have not included recipes for drying tomatoes, onions, or other fruits and vegetables. That's because drying in the microwave does not work.

I'll qualify that statement a bit by saying, you can dry small amounts of herbs, bread cubes for croutons or thinly beef slices into jerky. But you can't completely dry fruits and vegetables.

Sliced tomatoes, chopped or sliced onions and other fruits and vegetables contain too much moisture to dry in the microwave. Before they dry, they will burn or scorch around the top edges. For proper drying, both temperature and humidity must be controlled. Microwaving is fast, moist cooking and even on a low power setting, enough moisture can't be taken out.

Drying fresh herb works well, provided you observe several precautions. Be careful not to overdry herbs. When overdried, microdried herbs remain green, but their flavor is destroyed. Worst, overdrying can cause herbs and the paper towels underneath to start burning. Follow timings carefully and stir as indicated. Do not try to completely dry stems. I've included directions below.

As for drying tomatoes and onions, you best bet is a food dehydrator. You may want to try two other ways that I preserve tomatoes and onions. Both call for freezer storage, and are for relatively small amounts, but both work very well.

All-Purpose Tomato Sauce is just that. Use it like you would a can of store-bought tomato sauce. You can make this sauce like I do, with minimum work, by not peeling (or seeding) tomatoes, coarsely chopping vegetables and herbs and, after pureeing, pouring sauce into freezer containers and freezing it. Or, you can peel and seed the tomatoes first; finely chop onions and herbs and after pureeing, cook the mixture to a thicker consistency. (An easy way to peel tomatoes is to cover them with boiling water; let them stand 30 seconds and slip the peels off.) The later makes a more "perfect" sauce, but the first tastes just as good.

You'll notice there is very little seasoning and no salt in All-Purpose Tomato Sauce. That is so you can use it many different ways. Combine it with tomato paste and Italian herbs for a thick spaghetti sauce. Add chili powder and other seasonings for chili. Make a noodle and hamburger casserole with it. Or, serve it over breaded veal cutlets.

Freezing Onions is an economical way to preserve extra onions and an easy way to make your own convenience food. Whenever you need onions for cooking, they are chopped and ready to use. Microwaving (or any kind of cooking) makes them taste milder, so the thawed onions are excellent on hamburgers, steaks or sandwiches. Follow my hint and stir at the times indicated, even though it doesn't look like you need to stir. Otherwise, the onions will scorch — the edges will turn brown or black and you'll notice a burned smell and taste.

All-Purpose Tomato Sauce

4 cups quartered tomatoes (4-6 large tomatoes)
1½ cups chopped onions (about 2 medium onions)
1-2 cloves garlic, minced
½ cup loosely packed fresh basil leaves or 1-2 teaspoons dried basil leaves

Place tomatoes, onions, garlic and basil in microwave-safe 2-quart measure. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 5 to 7 minutes or until hot. Stir well; re-cover and continue microwaving (High) 5 to 7 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Process in batches in food processor or blender until smooth. If thicker sauce is desired, return mixture to measure and microwave (High) 5 to 10 minutes or until desired thickness. Freeze in 1-cup freezer containers. Makes 4 cups.

To use: Thaw in microwave-safe dish by microwaving (High) 2 to 3 minutes, breaking up mixture with a fork after about 1½ minutes. Use instead of canned tomato sauce. One cup is about the same amount as an 8-ounce can.

Each ½ -cup serving: 31 calories, 1g protein, 0 fat, 7g carbohydrate, 6 mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Freezing Onions

2 cups coarsely chopped onions (about 2 large onions)
1 tablespoon water

Place onions in a microwave-safe 4-cup measure. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 1 minute. Stir; re-cover and microwave (High) 1 to 2 minutes, stirring after each minute, or until onions are tender-crisp. Spread into single layer on cookie sheet and freeze until solid. Using a sturdy pancake turner, loosen onions from cookie sheet; place in freezer bag or storage container. Makes 2 cups.

Hint: Do not overcook; onions will soften more after freezing. You may double recipe amounts and times, but stir often to prevent scorching.

To use: Remove amount of onions needed; quickly reseal bag or container of remaining onions and return to freezer. Use in soups, stews or in any recipe where onions are to be cooked. Or thaw and use instead of fried onions on hamburgers.

Each tablespoon: 4 calories, 0 protein, 0 fat, 1g carbohydrate, 1mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Drying Herbs

Pick herbs on a sunny morning just after dew is gone. Rinse under running water. Shake off excess water; pat dry. Snip off leaves; measure and spread evenly on several layers of paper towels set on a microwave meat rack.

For 1 cup leaves, microwave (High) 2 minutes; stir well. Then microwave 1 to 2 more minutes or until dry and brittle, stirring every 30 seconds. For 2 cups leaves, microwave (High) 3 minutes; stir well. Then microwave 2 to 3 more minutes, stirring every 30 seconds. Watch carefully towards end of drying.

Lift paper towels and herbs from rack. Cool about 10 minutes. If not completely dry, microwave 30 to 60 seconds more. Cool; crumble and store in glass with tight-fitting covers. One cup fresh herb leaves makes about ¼ cup dried.

For large amounts: To prevent overdrying and loss of flavor when drying large amounts of herbs, partially micro-dry leaves on stems. Then hang them (leaves down) in a warm, dry dark place to dry completely.

Or place 3 to 4 large sprigs of herbs leaves (still on stems) on paper towels in microwave oven. Microwave on Medium Low (30% power, about 200 watts, sometimes called Defrost) 8 to 10 minutes. Strip off dry leaves. Microwave remaining leaves on stems on Medium Low 3 to 5 more minutes. Watch carefully towards end of drying. Strip off dry leaves and cool before storing.

Breakfast At Its Best

When cereal leaves one cold, it's time for a celebration of what breakfast can be at its best. Pack in the protein with cheese, milk, bacon, eggs and pancakes.

A tasty breakfast is the perfect way to welcome the day and it can be done without spending a great deal of time or money. If you think pancakes are fine only for days when there's extra time to prepare them, then think again. Whip up an extra batch on the days when your schedule allows and tuck them into the freezer. They can be quickly reheated in the microwave (30 seconds per pancake).

The secret to a light and tender omelet is beating milk in with the eggs, and cooking in butter that is just the right temperature. Heat the pan and the butter together so that the butter coats the bottom and sides of the pan to prevent sticking. Butter should be hot, but not to the point of smoking, to saute the onions and cook each omelet to perfection.

Coffee cakes are ideal because they can be kept at room temperature up to five days, if well-wrapped. Or they can be baked up to two months ahead and frozen.

Try these recipes contributed by our readers and have your family waking with rousing cheers.

BRIE & BACON OMELET

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
4 eggs
¼ cup milk
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 ounces chopped Brie, skin removed
4 slices bacon, cooked, drained and crumbled
3 tablespoons coarsely chopped toasted pecans
Fresh fruit, if desired

Preheat broiler. Melt butter in a 10-inch ovenproof skillet or omelet pan, tilting pan to coat bottom and sides. Saute onion until tender, about 3 minutes. Combine eggs, milk and pepper. Increase heat from medium to high. Pour egg mixture into skillet. Stir once and cook until the edges begin to set. Using a fork gently pull the edges of the eggs away from the sides of the pan so that the uncooked portion flows under the cooked edges. Continue until most of the egg mixture is set, but the surface of the omelet is still slightly wet. Sprinkle cheese, bacon and nuts over top of omelet. Fold in half; cut into 2 pieces. Garnish with fresh fruit. Serve immediately.

Here's a quick breakfast recipe using either your microwave or conventional oven.

Micro Eggs "Benedict"

8 slices ready-to-eat smoked ham, turkey ham, beef or corned beef
4 eggs
2 English muffins, split, toasted and buttered
Hollandaise sauce, optional

In each of 4 (6-ounce) custard cups, arrange 2 slices of ham, 1 on top of another, so that corners alternate. Break and slip 1 egg into each cup. Gently prick yolks with tip of knife or wooden pick. Place cups on pie plate or platter. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on 50% or 30% power, about 5½ to 6½ minutes, rotating pie plate ¼ turn each 2 minutes. Remove just before eggs reach desired doneness. Let stand, covered, about 1 to 2 minutes, if necessary, until eggs are desired doneness. Loosen from sides of cups, if necessary, and slide onto muffin halves. Top each egg with about 2 tablespoons Hollandaise sauce, if desired.

ANSWER - Sara Horst, Gardners, requested directions for removing candle wax from cotton. Thanks Lillian Love, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., for an additional way other than those previously printed. She writes that you should place a paper towel under the fabric with candle wax on it. Place another towel over the candle wax. Take a hair blow dryer and turn it on to heat the wax through the paper towel. The towels will absorb the wax.

ANSWER - Mary Ringley of Carlise requested the recipe for pie filling that previously appeared on Cream of Corn Starch boxes. Thanks to several readers who mailed in a recipe for lemon pie. It is printed below; however, I had the impression that she wanted a recipe for making fruit pies. Does anyone have that one.

Famous Lemon Pie

3 tablespoons cream of corn starch
1¼ cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
3 eggs, separated
1½ cups boiling water
1 (9-inch) baked pie shell
6 tablespoons sugar

Combine cream corn starch, 1¼ cups sugar, lemon juice, and lemon rind. Beat egg yolks; add corn starch mixture. Gradually add boiling water. Heat to boiling over direct heat and then boil gently 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour into pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in the 6 tablespoons sugar. Spread meringue over top of pie, carefully sealing in all the filling be spreading meringue to touch all edges of crust. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 4 to 5 minutes or until browned. Cool on cake rack away from draft. Serve cold. Makes (9-inch pie).

ANSWER - Lydia Esh of Bird In Hand requested a recipe for pear preserves. Thanks to S. K. Yoder, Watsontown, and Mary Weaver, East Earl, for sending a recipe for pear jelly and for pear honey.

Pear Jelly

4 pounds ground pears
4 pounds sugar
1 can pineapples, crushed

Boil together ingredients for about 15 minutes in a large kettle. Ladle into jars and seal with wax or freeze.

Pear Honey

8 pounds sugar
4 pounds pears halves
1 can crushed pineapples

Boil together ingredients for about 20 minutes. Ladle into jars and seal with wax.

QUESTION - Barbara Reed, Punxsutawney, requests a recipe for dill pickles. Thanks to Mary Jane Musser, Manheim, for sending her favorite.

Dill Pickles

Cut medium-size cucumbers lengthwise in strips and stand in pint jars. On top of each jar put:
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon mustard seed
1 tablespoon dill seed
1½ teaspoon salt

Fill jars with a hot solution made from equal parts water and vinegar. Process jars 5 minutes in boiling water bath.

ANSWER - Here's another answer for Joyce Whitcraft, New Freedom, who requested a recipe for V-8 tomato juice, from Mrs. Donald Hill, Apalachin, N.Y., and Norma Ulmer, Cogan Station.

Tomato Juice Cocktail

1 quart carrots, cut up
1 quart celery, chopped
1 pint onions
1 medium peppers
¼ cup canning salt
3 cups sugar
8 quarts peeled tomatoes

Cook tomatoes until soft. In second, cook other vegetables until well done. Put all cooked vegetables through food mill. Add salt and sugar. Bring to a boil. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

ANSWER - Here is another pizza crust recipe for R.S. Griswold who requested tips for making a pizza parlor type crust. These hints come from anonymous reader in Millerstown.

- Use hi-gluten flour or bread flour available at most bulk food stores.
- Use a 500 degrees oven and place the pizza on the lowest rack.
- Bake only 10 to 15 minutes. Watch carefully when the cheese starts to turn light brown, the pizza should be finished. To get a crusty crust, set the pizza pan on a throughly preheated layer of brick or an old cast iron griddle placed on the oven rack.
- Use Provolone or Mozzerella cheese.
- Lightly grease pan and liberally sprinkle with yellow cornmeal.
- Brush unbaked crust with oil to help prevent sogginess.
- For a thick chewy crust, let prepared pizza raise 10 to 20 minutes.
- For a thin crust, bake immediately.
- After baking, remove pizza from pan and place on a circle of cardboard to help prevent sogginess.

Pizza Dough

1 tablespoon yeast dissolved in ¾ cup warm water.
1 tablespoon oil
2 cups high gluten flour
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt

Combine flour, sugar, and salt. Add oil to yeast, and water mixture. Combine with flour. Knead 5 to 10 minutes until smooth and satiny. Place in lightly greased bowl. Turn dough over so the surface doesn't dry out. Let rise 20 to 30 minutes. Pat dough into a 15-inch circle on a lightly greased and cornmeal dusted pan. If the dough won't spread out, let it rest 10 minutes. Bake at 500 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes.

CORRECTION — Mrs. Barbie Stoltzfus, Leola, writes that her recipe for pizza that was printed a few weeks ago should have read that the dough could be prepared 1 hour and ten minutes before pressing on an oiled pizza pan instead of letting it rise that amount after pressing in the pan.

The program for the evening was presented by Helen Hummel from Hummel Florist, Wernersville. Mrs. Hummel assembled five fresh flower arrangements using many different types of flowers. She gave tips on arranging flowers and how to keep flowers fresh longer. The flower arrangements were given to our guests as door prizes. The guests each received wooden pins also.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the presentation of the program. Members were reminded of Men's Night to be held Friday, October 7, at 7:30 p.m. at Summit View Restaurant.

Some of the things that the U.S. Postal Service will accept for mailing: birthday cakes, fruits and plants, bees, and elephant manure (as long as the last is properly wrapped). Postal officials draw the line at snakes, though. They also turn down things that have to be fed and watered along the way, like kittens, poodles and people.

Mail Yourself? It's Already Been Done

WASHINGTON — Birthday cakes are permitted.

So are scorpions -- although you're not supposed to mail a tarantula, a spider, or a snake. Coconuts are fine, as long as they're clearly addressed. Fuel oil should be packaged so that it won't leak.

Those are only a few of the items people have tried to put stamps on and drop off at the post office. "You'd be surpised at some of the things we get," says Meg Harris, media relations officer for the U.S. Postal Service.

Take the contents of a house. The Postal Service does just that occasionally, when people figure out that they can wrap their belongings and mail them for less than it would cost to pay a commercial mover.

"There are certain commonsense restrictions, but basically we accept most anything as long as it doesn't weigh over 70 pounds in one parcel, and it's properly wrapped," Ms. Harris tells National Geographic News Service.

Sylvia Fox of Gainesville, Ga., recently mailed her household goods to Panama, where she had just been hired by the U.S. Embassy. The clothing, appliances, shoes, cameras, and silverware all went into 175 packages that cost her $975 to mail. A commercial moving company would have charged about $5,000.

Notwithstanding popular gibes about how the post office mangles mail, Ms. Fox noted that her packages all arrived in Panama City promptly and in good condition.

A woman in Blacksburg, Va., carved a pumpkin for her daughter's Halloween party in Fairbanks, Alaska. The scribbled the address on the side and mailed it without wrapping. Although the Postal Service discourages mailing unwrapped objects, the pumpkin arrived three days later in perfect condition. The Priority Mail bill was $10.

They're still shaking their heads at postal headquarters in Washington about the contractor who mailed 6,000 concrete blocks and 4,600 bags of cement to a remote Eskimo village. Sam Krogstad's bill for stamps came to about $45,000; the Postal Service figured the cost of delivering the material came to about $180,000.

Although the shipment was legal, postal officials felt unfair advantage was taken of their duty to serve all comers.

"We have a universal service and will take the mail anywhere," says Ms. Harris, "whether it's down the street or to an Indian tribe living in a canyon. Nobody in this country is penalized for where they live."

Officials do occasionally draw a line. It's been illegal to mail entire buildings since 1916, when a man sent a 40,000-ton brick house across Utah by mail because it was cheaper than the freight charges.

This year the Postal Service is unhappy about handling disease germs and toxins, no matter how carefully they are packaged. Officials are proposing a regulation that would keep contagious bugs out of mailbags.

Don't try to mail kittens or puppies. Mailmen may brave rain, sleet, and snow with never a whimper, but they won't feed the cargo.

It's perfectly fine to send baby chicks, ducks, and bees. Newly hatched fowl won't starve for the couple of days it takes to get them from one place to another. Bees seem to go into hibernation when they travel -- a fact that mail carriers sometimes discover the hard way when they assume the insects are dead.

Lizards are OK if they aren't poisonous. Also on the approved list are baby alligators, salamanders, tadpoles, toads, goldfish, worms, leeches, snails, and eggs. Just be sure to pack the eggs carefully.

There's More Than One Way To Win A Ribbon At The Fair

Pumpkins, peas and corn were the favorite vegetables for the first grade classes at Lincoln Elementary School. This class taught by Mrs. Weidler, talked about their favorite things to do and see at farm shows. They enjoyed having their own farm show at school where each entered a picture in competition. Other teachers judged the competition. The winners received ribbons for their placings just like in a real farm show.

Six-year-old Christopher Miller said, "I wanted to grow Indian Corn, but my dad didn't let me." So when the first graders at Lincoln Elementary School drew pictures to enter in their own "Farm Show," Christopher, of course, drew some Indian Corn. Lucky for him, he won a ribbon for his "prize corn." Shown above is the first grade class taught by Judy Lauck.

These children from Lincoln Elementary in the Ephrata School District of Lancaster County enjoyed tracing and coloring their vegetables to enter in the "farm show" competition at their school.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

It is the season for fairs. The weather is cooler, the goldenrod is blooming along the roadside and the corn is turning brown.

Lancaster County has seven local fairs. At one time there was a county-wide fair in our county. As a child I remember watching the horse races and also a group of gypsies camped at the fair. Now one must travel to another county to see a really large fair.

Last week my husband and I attended one on a weekday and the crowd was not very large. The weather was perfect and we walked and walked to see all of the exhibits. It is amazing to see the many breeds of rabbits and pigeons. Ordinarily I think of the type of pigeon that sits on our barn roof and the kind of rabbit that eats my garden crops.

But at the fair we saw "Fuzzy Lop", "Holland Lop" and "English Angora" ones. The pigeons had labels such as: "Homer", "Tumbler" and "Frillback." And, they lived up to their fancy names.

Next we went to the Horticulture Building where we saw flowers, fruits, vegetables, seeds, place settings and so much more. I especially enjoyed looking over the canned goods and the flowers. Some houseplants such as asparagus fern and spider plants were enormous. Some unusual displays were hops, ground cherries, quinces and tiny red onion sets.

Then we rested our tired feet and watched the horse races. It was fun to try and pick a winner from the half-dozen entries parading in front of us. Musicians entertained us between races. And of course, we had to see the cows, sheep and hogs too.

Then it was back home again where Allen did the milking and I picked beans and canned tomato juice. It is always nice to come home and sort through the mail and get back into our regular routine. At least here we can get a glass of water that does not cost fifty cents.

The course will include basic cooking principles, actual meal preparation, and converting favorite family recipes for use in the microwave oven. Microwave oven features and cookware will be discussed.

Registration is required by September 28th. There is a fee of $25.00 for the course. For further information, contact the Chester County Cooperative Extension, 235 W. Market Street, West Chester, PA 19382; 696-3500.

Mail Yourself?

midget once mailed himself from New York to Los Angeles on a $500 bet. It cost him $68.15, compared to the first-class fare of over $400. However, after the eight-hour flight in a styrofoam-lined crate, the wee man vowed to stay out of the mail in the future.

Ms. Harris recently had a question for Francis E. Gardner, the postal official in charge of deciding close calls. Ms. Harris had heard from a Baltimore columnist who was running a contest for gardeners. The winners would receive quantities of manure from King Tut, a visiting circus elephant.

The columnist wanted to know if he could drop them off at the post office.

"I called Gardner," Ms. Harris says. "I'm hysterical. He just says, 'Oh, elephant manure. I've been asked that question before.'"

No problem, Gardner told her. Not if it's well-wrapped.

NOTHING LASTS FOREVER

While most of us really do know that nothing lasts forever, we tend to forget that maxim when it applies to foods on the pantry shelf and in the freezer. All food has a definite shelf life whether it is on the pantry shelf or in the home freezer.

Shelf life for food in the home freezer refers to the period of time that food scientists recommend it be stored before it is used. Keeping it in the freezer for longer than the recommended time does not mean that it has spoiled or is unsafe to use; however, food stored long beyond its shelf life may lose its quality. Storage over a long period of time may cause some change in appearance, color, moisture, texture and taste for most foods.

While storage charts, found in home freezer booklets, developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and food science research offer basic guidelines for freezing and storing foods, storage times will vary based on the following factors:

* Quality of the food before it was frozen. Select fresh, unbruised top quality fruits and vegetables for freezing.

* Packaging or wrap used. Start with moisture-proof, vapor-proof packaging material. Remove all air and seal package well.

* Storage temperature. Recommended storage times are based on a freezer, temperature of 0 degrees F. or below. At higher freezer temperature, shelf life will be shorter.

For example, the recommended storage time for home frozen berries, cherries and peaches is 12 months. That estimated shelf life may be only 6 to 8 months if the freezer temperature is 10 degrees F. If you do not have a thermometer in your freezer, you would be smart to invest in one. They are not expensive.

While freezing maintains much of the flavor and texture of food, it cannot improve on its quality. For example, if the fresh fruit you freeze is past its ripeness peak or is bruised, it will have these same qualities when you take it from the freezer.

The keys to successful freezing are to select high quality food, prepare and package it properly, date and label the package, store it at 0 degrees F, and then use it within the recommended storage time.

INSURING COLLEGE STUDENTS' PERSONAL PROPERTY

Most parents will be happily surprised to know that their homeowners policies will likely provide adequate coverage on most college student's belongings located in dormitories, with the possible exception of the personal computer, less the decuctible. However, you should call your insurance agent to be sure.

Typically, coverage of property stolen away from home is limited to 10 percent of your personal-property insurance. For example, if your home is insured for $100,000, your personal property is covered for $50,000. The items your children take to college are covered for $5,000 minus the deductible.

There are several ways to handle additional coverage on the items a student takes to school if they are worth more than the 10 percent off-premises coverage provided as part of the homeowners policy. For a student who is under the limit, except for a few valuable items, you may add a personal articles floater to the policy. This enables you to insure specific items named in the floater at their full value. This is an excellent option if your student is protected by your homeowners with the exception of specific valuables such as jewelry, camera equipment or furs.

For the student who lives in an apartment and has a whole household of goods, the simplest way to take care of covering all articles is to get additional coverage - "personal property in a secondary residence endorsement." That is a long name for a short addition to a homeowners policy. It gives one the ability to go beyond the 10 percent limit stated in the policy.

When packing for this semester, parents or students should have made an inventory of the items going to school and checked with their insurance agent whether or not there is sufficient coverage on that property. If you did not do this, have your college student make the inventory and send it to you. This inventory will give the family a record of where items are located so that in the event of a loss, you will know what is missing.

Insurance Information Institute in New York publishes a free pamphlet which helps consumers keep track of their belongings. To receive your free copy, dial their toll free hotline, 1-800-221-4954 and ask for your free copy of Taking Inventory.

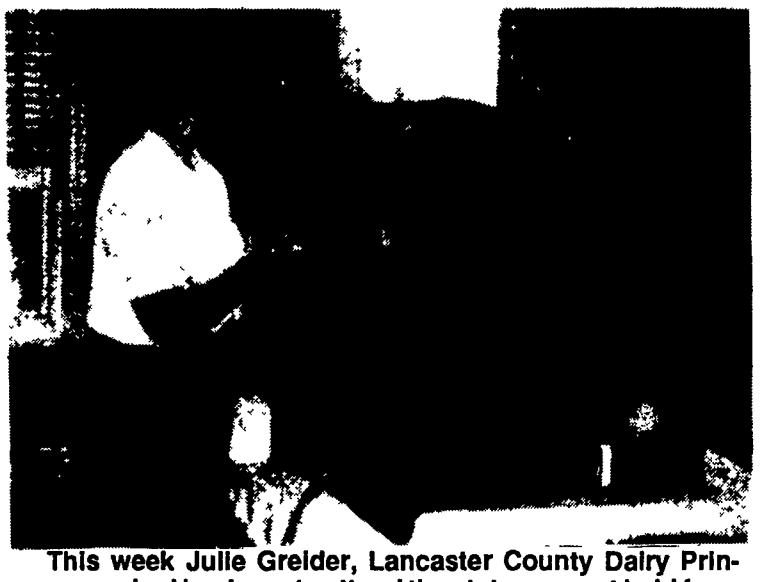
Packed And Ready To Compete At State Pageant

BY LOU ANN GOOD

COLUMBIA — On Wednesday, Julie Greider's pink satin gown hung in the closet, her luggage stood nearby. And on the dining room table, her prized scrapbook, recording her events as Lancaster's reigning dairy princess, was ready for judging at this weekend's state dairy princess competition.

Julie, along with 39 other contestants, spent hours preparing for the annual pageant. Many participants needed to miss school, work and social hours to get their scrapbooks, costumes and skits ready for the promotional competition.

Julie's dad, Robert, said, "Julie hasn't been able to help us much in the past two weeks." But he is not complaining. He and his wife, Marian, consider Julie's job of speaking for the dairy industry a priviledge. This is his second daughter who was named the county dairy princess. In 1981, Deb (now Garber) was first state runnerup.



This week Julie Greider, Lancaster County Dairy Princess, packed her bags to attend the state pageant held from Thursday through Friday in Harrisburg.

Flip through this scrapbook compiled by Julie Greider and you can see it's a tribute to her perfectionist tendancies to do things precisely and with detail.

Julie has more than herself to prepare for competition. She is entering her steer, Coby, in the Lampeter Fair next week.

Normally Julie, who works full-time on her parents' farm, is grateful that her parents are understanding of her schedule. Nonetheless, she said, "I'm missing my favorite job—corn harvesting. I like running the baler for chopping." She finds it relaxing to milk their 120 cows, which requires about three hour stints twice daily.

Labeled a perfectionist by her dad, Julie demonstrates that trait by the detailed work she has put into her scrapbook, which is required of all county princesses. Julie has meticulously crosstitched four cows on her cover design. Photos, stenciling, and typewritten captions are attractively displayed inside. Included are some newspaper articles promoting nutrition that Julie has written herself. Julie said, "Even if I don't win, it's nice to have this scrapebook to refer to in years to come."

Although some others complain about store promotions, Julie does not. She said, "I think they are really beneficial." If shoppers ignore her or refuse the handouts, she said, "I keep a friendly smile. Everyone needs to take some rejection." She added, "Basically I like everything about being a dairy princess."

If there is anything she is a little bit nervous about, it's the judges' interview. She said, "I like to prepare, but there's really no way to prepare for that."

As county princess, Julie will begin a public speaking course in October. In the meantime, she has been getting plenty of practice speaking to groups whose ages range from preschoolers to senior citizens. She was also commencement speaker for her graduation from Hempfield High School this past June. In school, she was a member of the National Honor Society and played field hockey and basketball. She is an active member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church. As a 4-H baby beef member, Julie is grooming her steer, Coby, for competition in the Lampeter Fair next week.

The next to youngest of seven children, Julie and her one brother are the only ones who have continued on the farm. Julie said, "I was thinking about being a paralegal, but now I'm seriously considering staying on the farm."

Like the 39 other girls who attend the competition this week, Julie considers it an honor to represent the dairy industry. She said, "Only one can win the state crown, but all can help the industry."

Twin Tier Pizza Huts Show Support For Dairy Farmers

ELMIRA, NY — Area dairy farmers will be able to take part in a fall cheese promotion being co-sponsored by Twin Tiers Pizza Hut and the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council (ADADC). The goal is to increase Italian cheese sales in the Southern Tier area during the month of October through an "Extra-Cheese Please" pizza promotion.

Consumer Offer

Throughout the month of October, Pizza Hut patrons will receive a special deal when they order extra cheese on their pizza. If they order a large pizza with extra cheese, they receive a free soft beverage with their meal or carton of milk for each party member (1/2 pt. size). Patrons who order medium pizza with extra cheese will receive a free order of bread sticks. These offers apply to both Pan Pizza as well as Hand Tossed Traditional Pizza. October is also the month for the introduction of a New Specialty Pizza at Pizza Hat called Cheese Lover's Pizza, a pizza especially designed for all you "Cheese Lover's!"

During this month-long promotion, area dairy farmers can receive a discount on their pizza. Dairy farmers who order a large extra cheese pizza will receive $2.00 off the cost of the pizza; those ordering a medium pizza with extra cheese will receive $1 off their order. Farmers must present their bulk tank reading slip for verification. The offer is limited to one special per visit.

A promotion kick-off is being planned for Saturday, October 1 at the Southport Pizza Hut beginning at 11:00 a.m. Dairy princesses and the Magic Cow will be on hand to help get the promotion off and running.

According to Mike Barcellos, assistant manager of the Southport restaurant, the promotion is not just to increase pizza sales, but also to benefit local dairy farmers. He stated "We want to support our local dairy farmers at a time when they need it most. We use all the proper ingredients - including 100% natural cheese." Barcellos has lived on a dairy farm for the past four years and has worked with the D.H.I.A. Commerce and feels strongly about doing what he can to help the local industry. He's developed signs for an outside display stating, "Ask for Extra Cheese Please - Support Your Local Dairy Farmers."

Twin Tiers Pizza Huts are located in Elmira Heights, downtown Elmira, Southport and Owego, NY; as well as South Waverly, PA. Pizza Hut signed the American Dairy Association's "REAL" Seal agreement in 1986. The chain features the "REAL" Seal on their menus and take-out boxes. This promotion is limited to the participating Pizza Hut restaurants listed above.

The ADADC is helping Pizza Hut coordinate the event, supplying promotional materials which include sweat shirts, table tents and buttons. They will also supply dairy princesses and the Magic Cow in order to enhance the in-store promotion.

All area dairy farmers are invited to take part in the promotion and get a special break on their pizza. Remember to ask for extra cheese and help local dairy product sales. For further information call ADADC toll free at (800) ADA-MILK (in New York) or (800) HOT-MILK (in Pennsylvania).

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council is a generic dairy promotion association supported by 20,000 dairy producers from New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Support Group

People who are suffering from cancer often need more than just medical care. They may need mental and emotional care as well. That's why the American Cancer Society started its Reaching Out Program. Reaching out is a cancer support group for cancer patients, their families and their friends. The group meets on the third Tueday of every month at 7:30 PM in the Community Room of National Medical Home Care. Reaching Out is sponsored by the American Cancer Society, so there's never a charge. For more information contact the American Cancer Society at 397-3744.

Partnerships That Are Formed To Dissolve

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LEBANON — When families enter partnerships, they generally intend to continue the arrangement indefinitely or for a lifetime. But over the years the Hoover brothers of Lebanon have formed several partnerships that are designed to dissolve.

That doesn't mean they failed. Actually the agreements fulfilled their purpose, and when that happens, the brothers take steps to dissolve them.

Dean, the third son of Abram Hoover, is presently in two partnerships with his brothers.

One partnership is with his brother Reid. They farm 250-acres of tillable land plus pasture that their dad owns. Without their father, the two brothers own 100 cows and 100 young stock, and they feed about 300 head of steers annually. Although both fellows do the milking together, Reid is responsible for the dairy herd and the bookkeeping. Dean shoulders responsibility for the crops and beef operation. That means they make the smaller decisions for their area of responsibility, but the larger decisions are still made jointly.

With Dale, the two brothers own a separate partnership called Hoover Farms II. Corporately, they own large equipment; individually they each possess their own tractor and some smaller pieces of equipment.

The brothers find partnerships a a good way to pool resources—financial, skills and knowledge. "It would have been tough to start out on our own," Dean said.

He added that at this point, he has no burning desire to be independent, especially with a dairy operation. On the other hand, he said, "it's difficult to own land together, for then it needs to be divided or sold if the partnership dissolves.

"Financially, we boys bought everything, we didn't have it handed to us," Dean said. But he believes those like he who grew up on a family farm have a better opportunity. He credits his dad for teaching them to be open to new ideas and new ways. He explained, "Dad was progressive. And he allowed us to buy better cows and feed."

Dale agreed, "I give my dad credit for his foresight in giving us the opportunity to expand in this way. "Not everything worked out exactly as planned. Changes were made, some things were adapted. It's a great way to get started in farming and I think a good way to continue."

But time changes things, the children of the partners grow older and want a place in the operation. How do you decide how to reimburse a child for time spent on chores that were previously shared by the partnership? How do you include them in profit and duties? To adjust their lifestyle to these changes, the brothers terminate the agreements as the need dictates.

"We are always careful to include in the agreement a way to take the partnership apart as easily as possible," Dean said. "The key is to have a buy-sell agreement that outlines how the partnership is to be sold. Put a value on everything on regular basis so that when the need to divide it arises, you can determine the value."

Dale added, "We had a good attorney who gave us good advice by saying, "Down the road, things change. What works best today might not in the future.'"

From this perspective, the brothers learned that it's important to list machinery and livestock purchases and the fair market value of assets on a regular basis. Yearly, they assign a detailed value on their inventory and equipment.

Dale and Charlotte Hoover gather with their children on their porch in Lebanon County. From left, Angela who is the Lebanon County Dairy Princess, Matthew, 14; and Alicia, 10, (seated).

"When we dissolve a partnership, our attorney suggests that we swap as many assets as possible for tax savings," Dale said.

Formerly Dale was in a partnership where profits were split evenly with his father and later both his brothers. Today Dale farms independently and owns only equipment under the partnership agreement with his brothers. Dale, his wife, Charlotte, and three children own an adjoining 94-acre dairy farm with 70 cows. They rent an additional 85-acre farm where they feed 130 steers. "Some people may be hesitant to form equipment partnerships because it isn't as easy to plan things as it is when you are independent," said Dale. For example, you might need to wait a day to plant corn because someone else is using the equipment. In a partnership, you need some give and take. You must allow others to have a shot at it." Any trepidations he may have completely disappears when "a piece of machinery needs to be fixed and I only need to pay one third of the cost."

Dale cautions, "Some farmers treat their equipment rough and are not as particular with it as others. In a partnership, this could cause a problem, but he said, "We brothers had the opportunity to work together for several years before we formed our first partnership. It's beneficial not to jump into it."

The brothers take steps to solve any questions that may arise from the setup. "We have this understanding that unless one is absolutely negligent in caring for equipment, we split the repair costs. So far, we've never had the problem that someone was negligent."

In this type of setup, it's important that one person be responsible to maintain the equipment; otherwise, maintenance might be overlooked.

"I have no burning desire to be independent, especially with a dairy operation," Dean said. Nevertheless, he stresses the importance of drawing up partnership agreements that can be easily dissolved if necessary. Here Dean stands with his wife, Mary Ann, and daughter, Maria.

Hoover Farms is operated by the partnership of Dean and Reid.

"The key is to have a buy-sell agreement that outlines how the parnership is to be sold. Put a value on everything on a regular basis so that when the needs to divide it arises, you can determine the value."

Ironically, the thing that the brothers find the most satisfaction in is also the most frustrating: Being able to work together in a family setting. Dean said, "We've always got along on the whole. We work well together."

On the other hand, that doesn't mean there are never disagreements to work out. "Sometimes we need to work out a plan that satisfies both parties when it comes to deciding who takes care of what or what amount of time someone takes off or who fixes what equipment."

He explained, "It's easier to work time off agreements when there are only two working together than when their are three. I can say, 'O.K. you milked for me one night this week so I'll milk for you next week;' but when there are three working together, that philosophy does not work. It's harder to keep three satisfied with arrangements."

Diversified farming with both dairy and beef has decreased overhead. "The beef operation allows us to get more use out of our equipment. Beef doesn't require as much labor, but utilizes equipment and facilities more. Milk production is important and it is more efficent to have fewer high producing cows rather than less production with more cows."

Partnerships

Dean commented, "Rented land is important to the strength of our operation, it allows expansion; otherwise, we couldn't get as large all at once."

Over the years, the weather and their soil has allowed them to have good crops and quality forages that cut down costs and help produce higher quality milk.

Although Dean prefers buying, selling and feeding cattle compared to the rigid demands of a dairy herd, he said, "To farm without dairy would require a larger feed lot without the constant turnover of cattle to produce income."

Profit margins are slim and the brothers pay close scrutiny to costs and cash flow. Dean said, "I may be naive, but I live with the idea that we'll always be able to make it in farming. There's always a need to have farmers and those with the best operations will make it. Management becomes the important factor between making or loosing the farm."

Chicken Demonstrations

NEWARK, De. — Do you struggle to come up with ideas for meals that are convenient, tasty and low in fat and cholesterol?

Tune in Sunday, September 25, to KYW-TV 3's "Farm, Home and Garden Show" at 6 a.m. Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. home economist Connie Parvis will demonstrate nutritions--and simple--ways to prepare chicken.

In "Chicken, The Healthy Choice," she'll suggest ways to make chicken even lower in fat and cholesterol than it already is (for example, removing skin and cooking with unsaturated fats).

The program will feature recipes for chicken dishes that cut down on fat, calories and preparation time but not on flavor. Some of these recipes use popular new chicken convenience products such as fully cooked, ready-to-cook and boneless items.

Printed copies of recipes will be available to viewers.

All the blocks will become property of the guild.

Understanding Gallstones

An estimated 29 million Americans have gallstones. These stones, which can be as small as tiny specks or larger than golf balls, develop in the gallbladder or its connecting tubes. The gallbladder is located behind the ribs on the upper right side of your body. Its function is to store digestive fluids produced by the liver.

You probably know someone who has gallstones, or perhaps you have them yourself. Test your knowledge about this common condition by taking this short quiz.

1. The most common gallstones are made of (a) cholesterol, (b) iron, (c) potassium, or (d) phosphorus.

2. Which one of the following is usually not a symptom of gallstone disease?

(a) chest pain, (b) blurred vision, (c) intestinal gas, (d) indigestion, (e) belching.

3. True or False: Women are more likely than men to develop gallstones.

4. True or False: Surgical removal of the gallbladder is the only way to get rid of gallstones.

5. True or False: Gallstone disease is always painful.

Answers:

1. Cholesterol is the major component of approximately 75 to 80 percent of all gallstones.

2. (b) Blurred vision is typically not a symptom of gallstone disease. Pain behind the rib cage on the upper right side of the body is the most frequent symptom of this disorder.

3. True. Gallstones are three to four times more common in women than in men. Being overweight, being pregnant, and consuming a diet rich in animal fats add to the risk. Women who have had one or more children seem to be more prone to this condition than those who have never been pregnant.

4. False. Although surgery is the most common treatment for gallstone disease, oral therapy with a natural bile acid is now being used to dissolve gallstones in patients who prefer not to have surgery or have a chronic physical condition, such as heart or kidney disease, that places them at high risk for surgical complications.

5. False. Many patients have what doctors call "silent" gallstone disease. The stones are present but they do not cause symptoms. The disease can either remain silent indefinitely or eventually cause severe discomfort.

South Mountain

The South Mountain 4-H Club met August 23, 1988 at the Fontana Community Building for Round-up. All members and parents were invited.

Rain prevented the volleyball game we had planned, so Martha Gregory from the county 4-H office conducted a game of 4-H Trivia. All members and some of their parents participated.

The business meeting was conducted by Angie Hoover, who also presented each member with their fair premiums, ribbons and completed projects books.

While the game was in session 4-H'ers could hear the sound of 3 ice cream freezers preparing refreshments. At the conclusion of the meeting homemade ice cream was served with lots of peaches, strawberries, and toppings to make delicious sundaes.

The next meeting will be a progressive dinner and hayride on October 29.

Make Your Own Compost

NEWARK, De. — Need some quick compost to enrich your garden? With the following recipe, you can make up one or two bags of compost in time for fall crops, says Delaware State College Extension garden agent Maggie Moor.

* Crumble a bushel of leaves into a clear polyethylene bag.

* Add two gallons of water and five pounds of high-content nitrogen commercial fertilizer (20-10-5 seems to work well).

* Place the bag in a sunny spot and turn it over every other day. In three or four weeks you'll have a good quality compost that can be used right away or stored until needed.

If warm temperatures continue, says Moor, this compost recipe should work easily. It's especially useful for people who don't have the space for a large compost pile.

Credit Repair Or Credit Fraud?

NEWARK, De. — Consumers, particularly those with a poor credit history, may have noticed recent advertising by companies claiming they can fix bad credit records. Can these credit repair services really live up to their promises?

According to University of Delaware Extension home economist Roxane Whittaker, "While these services say they'll help you get a good credit rating--for a fee-they usually can't do anything more than you can do yourself to change your credit record."

Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, "adverse information," including information on unpaid bills, taxes or judgments, as well as public record information, stays on file with credit bureaus for seven years, and bankruptcy information is saved for 10 years.

"So if your credit record is bad," says Whittaker, "no credit repair service can change it."

If you are denied consumer credit because of a poor credit report, the Fair Credit Reporting Act requires the creditor who rejected your application to tell you what credit bureau provided the report. It also requires that bureau to give you information about the contents of your credit report or a copy of the report, free of charge.

This gives you a chance to find mistakes and to take steps to correct them, says Whittaker. For example, if the report shows an unpaid bill that you think you paid, the credit bureau must reinvestigate, according to the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

"If you have the cancelled check or the bureau gets proof from the creditor that shows you paid the bill, the credit bureau has to erase the mistake from your record," says Whittaker.

If you use a credit repair service, it would receive the same report that the credit bureau would otherwise send you, says the home economist. "But if a mistake shows up in the report, you still could be asked to produce documents to clear it up, so you might as well work directly with the credit bureau rather than pay a service."

If the bureau thinks the information is correct after it reinvestigates, the Fair Credit Reporting Act allows you to write a statement of dispute that is included in all of your future credit reports.

You can have the credit bureau send updated reports--with corrections or with your statement of dispute--to creditors who have received reports during the past six months.

"Always follow up with the credit bureau to confirm that they've taken care of mistakes or incomplete information in your file," advises Whittaker.

Credit bureaus charge a fee to consumers who haven't had a credit application denied but want to check their credit report anyway.

"It doesn't hurt to do a routine check once in a while to make sure your credit report is accurate and complete," Whittaker says.

Coliform Mastitis

The most common coliform pathogens that can cause mastitis include Escherichia coli, Enterobacter aerogenes, and Klebsiella pneumoniae. These organisms are normal inhabitants of soil and intestines of cows. Coliform infections are not spread from cow to cow but from organisms which accumulate in the environment. This includes muddy pathways, polluted water, and dirty bedding. When compared to other forms of mastitis, coliform mastitis is relatively uncommon. Cattle seem to be most susceptible to coliform mastitis during hot, humid weather, during periods of heavy rainfall, and when they are under stress. Severe clinical infections usually appear in older, high producing animals within 70 to 90 days after parturition.

Coliform bacteria invade the udder through the teat canal, where they multiply very rapidly and produce endotoxins (poisons). The endotoxins are absorbed into the bloodstream and spread quickly throughout the body. Within a short period of time, the cow can have a high fever, little appetite and decreased milk production. The infected quarter will become swollen and produce serum-looking fluid. The infected cow will lose weight rapidly, become dehydrated, and may appear to have symptoms like milk fever. Most cases require veterinary treatment.

Several things can be done to help prevent an outbreak of coliform mastitis. Prevention can begin with getting rid of muddy areas in outdoor lots and by cleaning bedding several times of day. Straw should be used to bed dry animals and those who have recently freshened. Maintain good milking practices. Strip infected quarters often to help remove bacteria and toxins. Vitamin and mineral supplements, especially with vitamin E and selenium, have also been helpful in fighting coliform mastitis.

Catch Up On Getting Cows Pregnant

The prolonged hot humid weather during the last several months has had a negative impact on herd reproductive performance. Many herds have reported poor conception rates this summer. As a consequence, extended calving intervals are projected for many cows and the situation will become worse if these cows do not conceive during the next month or so.

Since the weather has improved recently, herd managers should consider developing an aggressive heat detection and AI program in order to detect the majority of these cows in heat during the next three or four weeks. This is often referred to as an "AI blitz". A concerted effort is directed toward heat detection and timely insemination. Such a program should include more frequent but routine, dedicated heat detection periods when cattle are likely to express heat. A list should be prepared daily of those cows due for insemination and those due to return to estrus after last insemination. Thus more heats can be anticipated. Heat detection aids and detector animals could be used during this period to enhance the efficiency of heat detection. All resources are directed to heat detection for this period of time. Such a program should be implemented now before the harvest season gets into full gear. This management strategy should not be considered as a substitute for routine heat detection during the remainder of the year.

Several programs using prostaglandin products have been developed for controlling estrus and ovulation in groups of lactating cows so that heat detection and insemination can be limited to a certain number of days. Such a program would be very useful and cost effective when properly applied to an AI blitz program. The single prostaglandin injection system based on a veterinary ovarian palpation has been used most successfully. This can be set up on a weekly, biweekly, every third week or monthly system. It should allow for the introduction of those cows that become eligible for first insemination after calving and those cows that do not conceive on the initial insemination. More cows are in heat simultaneously so heat detection becomes more efficient and accurate. Cows should not be bred by appointment. Cows must be cycling and the herd manager and veterinarian must be committed to the program. Herd managers and veterinarians must adhere to the time schedules for examinations, heat detection, insemination and pregnancy diagnosis.

If reproductive performance has been set back this summer due to weather conditions then consider utilizing an aggressive heat detection program early this fall. This could be supplemented with proper use of prostaglandins. Act now to catch up on getting cows pregnant.

Test Results That Prevent Premium Payments

High Somatic Cell Counts (SCC's) and high Preliminary Incubation (PI) test results keep many farmers from receiving premium payments for quality. During the year over 50% of all dairymen receive quality premiums at one time or another. During the summer months it can be less than 20% of the dairymen who receive premiums.

Most farmers can make the necessary changes to reduce the raw milk PI Count to 20,000 per ml or less in a few days. Many times the cost is low to achieve this and the premium is added income. It is necessary to do everything suggested to eliminate bacterial contamination of milk after it leaves the udder.

SCC's seem to be more of a challenge in late summer. Meeting a SCC of 300,000 per ml is possible, but requires time and effort. Lower SCC's mean a greater milk yield and increased income. They also mean an increased yield of dairy products to processors.

If you are on DHIA, you can see which cows are producing milk with high SCC's. Make the effort to reduce the SCC's of cows with high counts, or as a last resort, keep the milk out of the bulk tank. Some quality premiums are high enough that you should make the suggested changes.

Very few dairy farmers willing to change practices find it impossible to qualify for quality premiums. Field and laboratory staffs have the necessary information to help you. As a last resort they can get help from other industry personnel or from the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service.

Through The Cracks

Is your feed slipping through the cracks? Feed losses often happen with silage and large package hay systems. No one throws every tenth bale of hay out the back of the barn to rot. However, how many farms will leave large round bales out in the weather laying on the ground to rot from all directions? If its worth baling and you are planning on feeding it, think about storing those large bales inside or up off the ground and under a tarp. If your loader can turn the bales and stack them on end you can get more in a barn without pushing out the sidewalls.

Poor packing of silage piles will also lead to unnecessary feed loss. Broken or loose fitting doors in tower silos, broken or missing boards on bunker silos and covers flapping in the breeze for lack of enough tires or other weights all result in feed loss. Locating a silage pile on a well drained hard surface will allow silage to be picked up without mixing in dirt and mud.

Feed losses also happen with poor feeding methods. Covered feeders with slant bar fronts or other devices to discourage animals from wasting feed will result in more hay or silage getting into the animal and not on the ground. Work done at Penn State several years ago resulted in design of a large bale feeder that minimized wasted feed (Two Stage Round Bale Feeder 770-521 available at county extension offices). An electric fence wire strung over the center of a silage bunk will keep animals out of the bunk and reduce head tossing and playing with silage. A little common sense can reduce feeding losses at bunks and hay racks. Grouping animals by age and production will assure that expensive feed is getting to the right animals.

Feed losses occur when animals don't feel well. Be sure your housing system provides good fresh air at all times so that animals do not suffer from respiratory problems. Rough walking and resting surfaces can result in lameness, reluctance to lay in stalls, or slips and falls. Good fresh water is needed to go with expensive feed stuffs. Be sure that adequate frost proof water is available to all your animals, all the time.

Look over your entire feeding system - handling, storage, feed

locations and animal health. Are there some places you can improve on by using your head and a little more care? If so this would be a good year to make those improvements. Good feed is hard to come by, and it cost money!

Herd Distribution

It is difficult to evaluate the reliability of a sires summary unless there are hundreds of daughters involved. For over twenty years we have used the "repeatability" value as a measure of the accuracy of the Predicted Difference (PD) estimate. Repeatability has been a controversial figure for some people. While 70 percent repeatability (roughly 50 daughters in 50 herds) has been accepted as a reasonable compromise between the accuracy of the PD estimate and the costs involved in getting an acceptable number of tested daughters they contend that it penalizes some sires if it's used to reject bulls with a small numbers of daughters.

Doug Wilson of 21st Century Genetics suggests using a simpler concept when looking at sires with less than 85 percent repeatability (roughly 100 daughters in 100 herds). He proposes dividing the number of herds by the number of daughters in a summary. Thus 50 herds with 50 daughters equals 50 + 50 or 100 percent. Ten herds with 30 daughters give us 10 + 30 or 33%. The closer the herd distribution is to 100 percent the more random the sample (and the less likelihood of one or a few herds biasing the information) and the better the PD estimate.

Once we have the 400 or 500 or more "second crop" daughters that result from a sire being put in regular AI service after his initial progeny test results are known we have a reliable estimate on the bull.

Our problems have almost always come from the "over-use" of bulls that had high PD and/or PDT values when the daughters were located in a few herds or when the distribution of daughters was not close to a "one daughter to one herd" situation.

The "herd distribution" concept that Wilson suggests seems reasonable and may help us better evaluate sires that have their daughters unevenly distributed among herds.

Better Cows

Prior to 1970 genetic change in Holstein females was only about 6 pounds of milk per year. Since the 1970's genetic change has increased to about 120 pounds per year. Such a change is due in part to an increased acceptance of accurate estimates of breeding values for cows and sires. It's also due to the increased use of the best AI sires. Even though the change in the female part of the cattle population has been substantial, it could become even larger since genetic change in the females lags behind that of the males. Optimum use of the best proven bulls will accelerate genetic change in females. Extensive sampling of young sires with the highest pedigree indexes for yield will insure a continuous supply of top proven bulls.

L.W. Specht

Provide A Stress Free Environment

A consistent operating routine for bringing cows and milking machines together is essential. Cows that are frightened or excited before milking may not let their milk down in spite of an effective preparation routine. Hormones are released into the bloodstream during periods of stress. These hormones interfere with normal milking procedure and the animal's resistance to disease, including mastitis. A milking environment that routinely causes stress to cows may predispose cows to a greater rate of mastitis infection.

C.W. Heald

Clip Udders For Cleanliness

Well clipped udders reduce the amount of dirt and manure that can contaminate milk. Udders with long hair are difficult to clean and dry. Milking wet and/or dirty teats increases the risk of high bacteria counts in the milk and increases the rate of new cases of mastitis.

Penn State Meats Lab Open For Sales

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — The Penn State Meats Lab is now open to the public from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. Friday afternoons during the semester.

The sales program is part of the undergraduate program in animal science that includes classes in meat evaluation, slaughtering, meat cutting and marketing. Meat sold comes from University herds and has been butchered and prepared by students. Buyers will find high quality cuts of beef, lamb, pork, and processed meats such as sausage, bacon, scrapple, and smoked ham.

Friday sales are an old State College tradition and something of a social occasion as well. Some customers gather well before 1:30 p.m. in the lecture room next to the sales area for a chat before lining up to take their number. When it's time to start, the sales staff announces the day's specials and waits on customers according to their number. Prices are competitive with local markets and a price list, usually set for the semester, is available in the sales room. Proceeds offset the expenses of buying livestock and feed and support department research.

The Meats Lab is teaching facility operated by the Department of Dairy and Animal Science as a small meat packing plant. Faculty and staff teach classes and assist with research and extension activities in the Departments of Food Science and Dairy and Animal Science.

The lab is located on Porter Road, directly across from Beaver Stadium at University Park. For more information contact Meats Lab manager Robert Kimble at 814 863-3658.

Penn State Horticulture Show Celebrates 75th Year

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — The 75th Penn State Horticulture Show will be held Homecoming weekend, Oct. 8 and 9, at the Agricultural Arena near Beaver Stadium. Show hours are 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Saturday and 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday.

Under the theme "A Diamond Jubilee: A Stroll Down Memory Lane," visitors will experience horticulture from colonial times through the present. Most plants used in the exhibits are for sale. They can be reserved and picked up after the show on Sunday at 5:00 p.m. Other plants, including tropical and flowering house plants and herbs, will be sold during the show. Apples, cider, pumpkins, honey and fresh mushrooms will also be sold.

The show is sponsored by the College of Agriculture's Horticulture Club, and all of the planning, design and construction is done by the students in the club. Exhibits cover the inside of the Ag Arena. Tons of dirt and mulch are trucked into the arena each year to hold the live trees and plants.

This year's exhibits include colonial gardens, pioneer gardens and turn-of-the-century gardens, as well as views of horticulture from the 1920s through the present. The World War II "Victory Garden" exhibit, for example, will include a demonstration of canning techniques from the 1940s. The "Baby Bloomers" exhibit, a look at gardens of the 1950s and 1960s, will feature a bridge crossing a stream and a traditional white picket fence.

The Horticulture Show has been held in some form every year since 1908 with the exception of the years during World War II. It began in January 1908 as an apple show sponsored by the Department of Horticulture. In April 1911 the first Flower Show was held, followed by the first Fruit Show in November of that year.

Over the next 20 years, the show had several different formats. It was part of an agriuclural fair and a three day "horticulture week," and some years it was held as a separate event. Landscape architecture was brought into the event in the 1930s, when the show took on more of its current look.

The show's location was moved often during its first 32 years, from an attic in one of the agriculture buildings, to tents, to greenhouses, to Borland Lab, to the old Armory where Willard Building now stands. In 1940 it moved to the Stock Pavilion — now called the Pavilion Theater — and remained there until 1962 when it was relocated to the old Ice Pavilion. When the Ice Pavilion underwent renovations in 1977, the show moved again — this time to two large tents set up in the flower gardens along Park Avenue. It stayed there until the Ag Arena was completed in 1984.

The Agricultural Arena is located across from Beaver Stadium on Penn State's University Park Campus. Admission to the Hort Show is free. Visitors to the show who also will be attending Penn State's Homecoming football game against Cincinnati may want to plan their visit either before or after the game to avoid traffic congestion.

Pennsylvania and Northeast Agriculture
H. Louis Moore
Professor of Agricultural Economics
Penn State University

When Ohio and the West were opened to agriculture in the last century, the North Atlantic began to lose some of its importance as the bread basket of the nation. The expanses of fertile, cheap land to the West shifted many enterprises in that direction. The railroads in the last century and trucks in this century opened our markets to more distant production. Today, markets in many cases have become even international in scope.

Yet the North Atlantic states (New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania) continue to play a role as agricultural producers. Nursery, vegetable, fruit, dairy, livestock and some field crops are important in the Northeast. These North Atlantic states accounted for 6.6 percent of the nation's cash receipts from agricultural production in 1970. With the big push in grain production and export sales in the 1970s in the Midwest, the shore held by the North Atlantic states dropped to just 5.1 percent by 1980. The agricultural recession of the first half of the 1980s hit other areas harder than the Northeast. Grain producers were especially hard hit. The Northeast improved its position during the agricultural recession years and by 1987 accounted for 5.8 percent of the nation's cash receipts from agriculture, up from 5.1 percent in 1980.

Which states in the North Atlantic area are major players in agriculture? Most people indicate that the two most important states are New York and Pennsylvania. It is generally believed that New York is a larger agricultural state than Pennsylvania. Why? There are two reasons: (1) New York does have a larger dairy industry than Pennsylvania, and (2) New York was more important than Pennsylvania until the 1970s. In 1970, Pennsylvania produced 31.5 percent of the agricultural cash receipts in the Northeast while New York's share was 33.8 percent. Combined, the two states produced 65.3 percent of all the cash receipts in the Northeast.

The recent summary for 1987 indicates that Pennsylvania now accounts for 40 percent of the total agricultural cash receipts in the Northeast. (Up from 31.5 percent in 1970). New York's share at 31.2 percent in 1987 is down from 33.8 percent in 1970. In 1987 these two states shared 71.2 percent of the total cash receipts in the 9 state area.

Pennsylvania is strong in a number of agricultural enterprises such as dairy, poultry, hogs, mushrooms and nursery products and maintains strong supporting industries that supply the inputs, financing and marketing services to keep agriculture viable. The smaller New England states are betting on minor crops such as blueberries, broccoli and endive with sales made direct to the consumer as their road to growth.

The transition period for agriculture, which began in 1980, has seen Pennsylvania's agricultural receipt grow from $2.70 billion in 1980 to $3.23 billion in 1987, and the state moved up from a ranking of 21st to fourth in cash receipts.

Farm Credit Makes Low-Interest Drought-Relief Loans Available

YORK — The 1988 severe summer drought has had adverse affects on the crop production in the six county area serviced by York Farm Credit Service. Farm Credit recognizes that due to the drought, many farmers will need to do additional borrowing because of reduced crop sales and additional feed purchases.

Jay V. Rush, president of the York Farm Credit Service, announced a special drought loan program. The program, with low interest rates of 8.75% on variable loans and 9.50% on fixed rate loans, will be offered for a limited time to farmers of Adams, Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, Perry, and York counties.

"Our board of directors, consisting of solely farmers, felt it important to provide reduced-rate working capital purpose loans to farmers who will need to do additional short term borrowing as a result of drought conditions," said Robert L. Smyser, a York County dairy farmer and Farm Credit director.

To qualify for this program, farmers need only review the effects of the drought on their 1988 crops and cash flow with a Farm Credit loan officer. Normal credit qualifications and repayment schedules will apply.

Loan applications will be taken beginning October 1, and must be taken out by December 31, 1988.

SEVEN REASONS THAT KINZE IS THE QUALITY FORCE IN MOVING GRAIN

1. DUAL AUGERS-THE FASTEST, MOST EFFICIENT WAY TO MOVE GRAIN

KINZE's massive dual auger system means you're unloading at full capacity. Wet or dry. From start to finish. At speeds up to 290 bu per minute The KINZE dual auger system uses a horizontal auger to force-feed the vertical unloading auger. That means you benefit from the minimal grain damage and top unloading speeds.. possible only when augers run at full capacity.

2. HYDRAULIC FOLD & SELF-ALIGNING AUGERS ELIMINATE TROUBLE SPOTS

A KINZE original! Hydraulic fold and a unique linkage slow the auger assembly at both ends of the folding or unfolding sequence... this prevents damage to the hinge points In addition, the exclusive over-center lock automatically locks the auger into unloading position without bolting or unbolting. (Even if hydraulic pressure would leak off the cylinder the auger would remain latched in position)

A spring-loaded bearing on top of the vertical auger also allows augers to self align themselves to prevent auger damage during the folding sequence

3. HIGH-FLOTATION TIRES KEEP YOU MOVING!

Largest diameter diamond-tread tires in the field. Optional on most competitive models...standard equipment on KINZE. Puts more tread on the ground so your load pulls easier, rides smoother, even in soft or greasy fields. KINZE was the innovator of high flotation "big wheel" auger wagons. We won't settle for anything less Neither should you

And, you won't find tandem axles on a KINZE That means you will discover shorter diameter turns a lot less stress on tires/hubs/ spindles and axle assemblies We won't put tandem axles even on our biggest wagon (Model 1240) It comes equipped with dual oscillating axles

4. A PROVEN, LOW PROFILE DESIGN

No short cuts No compromising No top-heavy single auger system. KINZE's dual auger system creates a field proven, time-tested, low-profile design that puts the auger up front where it belongs, where you can see it where you can control it

Other benefits? Greater capacity More clearance for the combine auger. A lower center of gravity. Better weight distribution for sure-footed traction Anywhere you need to go

5. INDUSTRIAL GRADE COMPONENTS BUILT TO LAST!

Take a look at these heavy-duty KINZE components:

- industrial grade sprockets with tapered bushings in the drive system
- heavy-duty #80 roller chains (double #80 on the 840 and 1240 models)
- wide-flanged H-beam structural steel axles with rugged channel iron or steel tubing in the undercarriage
- large diameter bearing and hub assemblies
- full pitch, 5/16" helicoid industrial flighting (not light agricultural flighting)

6. MORE POWER... EXACTLY WHEN & WHERE YOU NEED IT!

You're unloading with a 2:1 sprocket reduction drive system, not the 1 1 ratio you find on most wagons today. So you get 50% more starting torque than the competition Plus, you take the stress off the tractor PTO clutch and place it on the heavy duty wagon drive components where it belongs This is especially important when unloading high moisture grain

7. "LITTLE" DETAILS MAKE A BIG DIFFERENCE

We're farmers too And we know from experience, most often it's the "little" details that cause big problems. That's why we pay extra attention to those details. We've added a grease bank and chain oiler, so lubrication is practically automatic We've silicone-sealed and painted all the metal-to-metal joints, so dust and rust don't stand a chance. We use only heavy-duty U-joints, chains, and sprockets so parts last longer.

If it isn't the best - even on the details - we won't put our name on it

Krause
THE FIRST ROCKFLEX DISC IS THE BEST

It Takes More Than A C-ARM BEARING Hanger To Make A ROCKFLEX DISC That LOVES ROCKS

Most disc harrow manufacturers, including Krause, are located in areas that do not have rocks like we have in Pennsylvania and Maryland. Because Hoobers have sold over 500 KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISCS to Pennsylvania and Maryland Farms. KRAUSE knows what it takes to make discs that work and hold up for years of production in tough, rocky conditions.

Before You Purchase A New Disc This FALL You Should Try A KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISC... They're Field PROVEN...

IS THERE A BETTER CORN & BEAN COMBINE THAN THE

CASE IH AXIAL-FLOW

Hoober's Combine Owners Think Not!

LISTEN TO WHAT HOOBER'S AXIAL-FLOW OWNERS SAY ABOUT THEIR COMBINES:

We Asked Our Customers, "Did the purchase of the CASE IH Axial-Flow Combine increase your combine productivity?"

Amount of fines are less. Our harvest time was cut down by one third.

JOE DiMARTINO
Walden, NY

More harvest capacity so we have less stops to unload. Easier to make threshing adjustments. Much faster and easier to change from corn to soybeans.

HOWARD MYERS
Lawrenceville, NJ

One axial-flow can do the work of two JD's with less grain loss and damage using half the fuel.

WILLIAM RINAS
Felton, PA

The rotary is untouchable in capacity and is maintenance free.

DARYL ALGER
Palmyra, PA

I can do more acres per day. I also was able to take on extra custom work.

DAVID MAST
Elverson, PA

With the rotor I can travel a bit faster on hills and I have less cracked grain in the sample.

DAVID BECKER
Elizabethtown, PA

We put less grain out the back and also put cleaner grain in the tank

CHARLES & CARL BOMGARDNER
Annville, PA

We are able to cover a lot more acres and able to handle bad conditions better.

KENNETH SMITH
Middleburg, PA

Much, much less downtime

MARTIN GREENLEAF, JR.
Oxford, PA

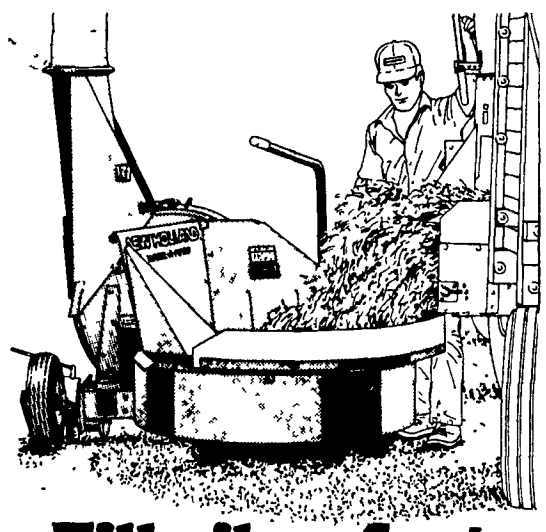
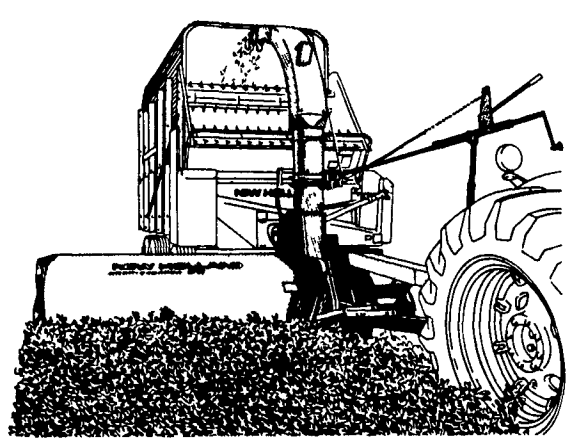
12-knife cutterhead

High-quality feed is important to you So you ll like the fine, uniform chop you get from the Model 718 forage harvester It s the only medium-duty chopper available with a 12-knife cutterhead to give you a controlled even cut The uniform length-of-cut makes for easier unloading blowing, storing and feeding. And you can choose from four crop-saving heads—a one- or two-row cornhead, a windrow pickup or a sicklebar



Fill silos fast

The Model 30 forage blower has only one speed—FAST It keeps up with your harvester and wagons and fills silos quickly The secret of the Model 30 s capacity is its 1 000-rpm driveline and the Whirl A Feed® hopper that gives the crop a running start before entering the blower And the hopper is a whopping 48 inches in diameter for reduced spillage If you re looking for a blower with amazing capacity ask us about the Model 30



All-seasons chopper

A Crop-Chopper® is perfect for a variety of chopping jobs Use it to cut green feed make bedding out of cornstalks or straw, or shred and spread cornstalks for mulching It can even mow weeds or clear small brush and stubble

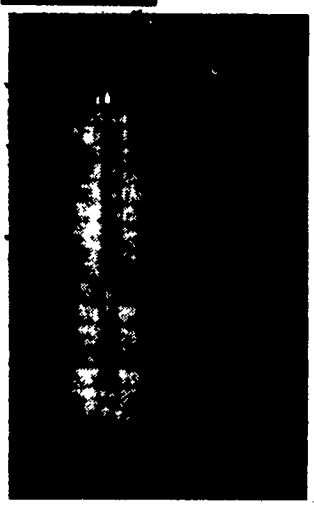
"Consider The Concrete Advantages"



You still have time to get your Sollenberger Silo for high moisture corn storage this fall. The summer of 1988 will be remembered for the many hot, dry days. These high temperatures damaged a lot of stored corn in structures that have a thin wall and do not reflect heat. Avoid this heat damage with a poured concrete silo from Sollenberger Silos Crop.

* The Laidig 43 bottom unloader handles high moisture ear corn and shelled corn.
* The Laidig 98 or 198 will do a good job with grains or forage at 50% moisture. BY FILLING EARLIER YOU CAN SAVE YOUR VALUABLE LEAVES.

You Will Appreciate The Quality Of A Sollenberger Silo For Many Years To Come.

FACT: Our poured concrete wall has 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel. Heat damage occurs when stored feed is heated above 95° F. Our silo protects your feed quality.

Holstein Is Second-Time York Fair Supreme Champion

BY LISA RISSER

YORK — For the second year running, Coredale Holsteins' Coredale Creek Nan, a four-year-old Holstein, was selected as the supreme champion of the York Fair open dairy show.

Nan is scored VG-89 and a recorded lactation of 27,000 pounds of milk. She is a Creek-Buff Elevation Lester daughter out of Just Beauty Needle Nettie.

Besides having the supreme champion, Coredale Holsteins pulled in several blue ribbons during the Holstein show. Among their class winners were a summer yearling, best udder, bred-and-owned senior, and dairy herd.

The aged cow shown by Beshore Farm was selected as the reserve grand champion of the Holstein show. Kowraygan Creek Linnan Jean is a seven-year-old cow sired by South Creek Buff Elevation Lester out of Kowraygan Happy Lady.

Rutter Brothers dominated the Guernsey show, taking home three out of four champion ribbons as well as the grand and reserve grand champion rosettes. Their senior champion, a dry 10-year-old out of Houselys Dari Fayvor, was selected as grand champion. Her daughter, a seven-year-old sired by Rutter Brothers Bornets Bucky, was named by judge John Morris as reserve senior and reserve grand champion.

Janelle Boyer's Golden Lock Fayette Tex Gretel, a junior yearling, won the junior Guernsey champion honors.

Two cows, sharing the same dam and sire but different owners, grabbed the top two spots in the Jersey show. Mildred Seeds' Top-O-Hill Silver Beacon Penny, a 3-19-84 daughter out of Top-O-Hill Special St. Patty, edged out her sister to win the grand champion rosette. One year younger, Top-O-Hill Silver Beacon Penny 2, owned by Karen Sanner was touched by judge Jeffrey D. Myers as reserve grand champion.

Glenn and Gary Crowl went home with the top Brown Swiss honors after dominating the show. Their junior two-year-old, Joyel El Titan Boots out of Beaver Creek Poseys Books, was the judge's pick for grand champion. Coming in second was Joyel Bulison Jackie, a dry four-year-old.

The aged Ayrshire cow owned by Sam Diehl was the tops in her division, winning the blue rosette. Mentzer Homestead Albi Lizz is a five-year-old Milaway Albi daughter out of Mentzer Homestead T Lizz. Diehl's senior two-year-old left the ring as the show's reserve champion Ayrshire.

In the Milking Shorthorn division, the only entry was Glenrich U Mary, a three-year-old owned by Glenn and Gary Crowl.

York Fair Youth Swine Show

BY LISA RISSER

YORK — When Wednesday's 4-H Swine Show came to a close, Matt Trostle of Red Lion had a fist full of ribbons to add to those he won during the 4-H Sheep Show.

Trostle's sows swept the Spotted division class titles and went on to become the champion and reserve champion Spotted sows.

Brad Bankert of Hanover also went home a big winner. The 16 year old exhibited Chester Whites and won all ribbons, facing no competition. His Duroc sows won all but one class in their division and one went on to become the reserve champion. Jason Frantz of Seven Valleys showed a February sow that was named champion by judge Vern Hazlet of Penn State.

Sarah Kitzmiller of New Freedom won all ribbons in the Berkshire division including champion and reserve champion spots.

Jimmy Neutzel of Felton was the lone exhibitor in the Yorkshire division, and his sows were deemed champion and reserve.

The champion market hog was shown by Kris Miller, a 4-H'er from York. Hazlett selected the hog exhibited by Joshua Hoffman of Dover as reserve champion market hog.

In the FFA market hog show, Gus Parlett edged out three-time class winner John Eaton to show the grand champion hog.

National Ram Sale Tops $500 Average

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — The National Ram Sale, held last month here grossed $445,300 on 867 head and set a $513.61 average price. Although the average dropped slightly from the record $575 of 1987, the gross was record high, making the sale the highest ever by the National Wool Growers Association.

A Suffolk ram, consigned by Caras Ranch of Spanish Fork, Utah, topped the sale at $4,000, selling to Ronald Dreher of McHenry, N.D.

The second high-selling rams brought $3,000 each. Consignors and buyers were: Cunningham Sheep Company, Pendleton, Ore., Rambouillet ram to Betty Maddox and Roger Schroeder, Wilcox, Ariz.; Ernest Perez & Sons, Encino, N.M., Rambouillet ram to Johnny Jamison, Leday, Texas; and R.J. Shown, Monte Vista, Colo., Columbia ram to Utah State University, Logan, Utah.

Cunningham Sheep Company, Pendleton, Ore., sold the top two pens of range rams at $1,100 per ram. Buyers of the pens were Hall Sheep Co. or Grace, Texas, and Melchor Gragierena, Bakersfield, Calif. Gragierena also purchased a pen of five range rams from Olsen Bros. of Spanish Fork, Utah, for $1,000 per head.

The sale included a Classic Ram Sale where rams were prescreened and selected to reflect the highest quality, a Registered Ram & Ewe Sale, and a Range Ram Sale. The Classic Sale featured 35 head and averaged $1,303, with a gross of $45,600. Rambouillets held the highest average in the classic at $1,550, followed by Columbias at $1,420, and Suffolks at $1,180.

Overall sale breed averages were: Rambouillet- 395 averaging $594; Columbia- 110 averaging $348; Targhee- 9 averaging $361; Polypay- 19 averaging $314; Hampshire- 27 averaging $362; Suffolk- 316 averaging $381; Hampshire/Suffolk- 37 averaging $356; Rambouillet/Columbia- 18 averaging $439.

"This was an outstanding example of the value sheepmen place on having good rams in their flocks," said Sale Committee chairman Dr. Lyle McNeal. "We feel very good about this sale, especially in light of recent happenings in the lamb market."

This year's sale was the 73rd annual event, and the second to be held in Salt Lake City's Salt Palace. The combinationm sale and sheep exposition was popular for sheep producers and the public alike, with sheep dog trials, sheepman's lamb barbecue, a sheep lead, cowboy poetry, a wool show, and sheepman's seminars.

New Jersey Meat Packer Agrees To Civil Penalty

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Franklin Veal Company, Inc. of Paterson, N.J. and its owner, Christopher Marafiote of Garfield, N.J., have agreed to a $1,000 civil penalty and cease and desist order by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The meat packing firm and Marafiote agreed to the penalties to settle federal administrative charges of failing to pay promptly for livestock and meat as required by the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

Calvin W. Watkins, deputy administrator of the Packers and Stockyards Administration, said the cease and desist order, similar to an injunction, was issued to ensure future compliance with the P&S Act.

Watkins said the firm purchased livestock or meat in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Georgia and Tennessee.

In agreeing to the penalties, the firm and Marafiote neither admitted nor denied the charges filed by USDA under authority of the P&S Act.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice, and payment protection law. It is designed to maintain integrity in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat, and economic law and order in the marketplace.

Seedway Honors York Dealers

HALL, NY — Seedway recently honored its dealers in the York area for their high alfalfa seed sales. The dealers: Eric Sheib of F.M. Brown's Sons in Sinking Springs, S. Martin Greenleaf of Kirkwood, and Lee Burkholder of Newburg received a placque and monetary award for their accomplishments during the Fifth Annual Dealer Meeting of the Seedway York Division held in Reading.

Seedway is a diversified regional seed company marketing Asgrow/O's Gold and Eastland/Todd brands.

The heavy-walled framework of this fertilizer applicator allows a wide variety of row spacings.

Thurston Introduces Heavy-Residue Fertilizer Injection Applicator

THURSTON, NE — Thurston Manufacturing, makers of Blu-Jet fertilizer application equipment, has introduced a new tool bar for advanced conservation fertility programs. The Blu-Jet LandRunner, available in three-point and pull-type models, uses the same 13'6" heavy-duty center section found on their very popular LandWalker series. The 4"x6" heavy-walled framework features a 38-inch rank that provides superior residue flow and allows the widest variety of row spacings available in the industry, including unusual spacings for pre-plant, side dress, ridge-till and no-till.

Wings have been designed with a 5 degree downward float to promote uniform knife penetration through varying terrain. Wing spacers are available to keep wings level if necessary, and are easily removed when not needed. Bolt-on extension wings are also available, in two sizes.

Both 3-point and pull-type models are manufactured in 21-, 27-, 31-, 36-, and 41-foot lengths, with pull-type LandRunners also available in 47-foot models. The unit has a 5-year tool bar warranty!

The new Sukup Cyclone Cutter is ruggedly built and cuts a 15-foot swath. It weighs 3,800 pounds and includes a 125-horsepower Y gearbox and 80-horsepower gear boxes on the folding wings.

Sukup Offers Folding-Wing Rotary Cutter

SHEFFIELD, IOWA — Sukup Manufacturing Company has introduced a new, folding-wing rotary cutter that features several innovations not found on other units. Sturdily built and extremely rugged, the new unit cuts a 15-foot swath. Users will find it convenient and efficient to maintain set-aside acres, cut grass and forage, or chop corn or cotton stalks and other crop residue.

Exclusive design features of the unit, trade named the Sukup Cyclone Cutter, include:

- Two-gauge tires (one on the front corner of each wing) that act as rolling skids to prevent trash build-up ahead of the unit;
- Adjustable rear tires for accommodating different row widths-- particularly useful for cutting corn stalks or other row crops;
- Urethane-filled, puncture-proof tires on all wheels for longer wear.

The Cyclone Cutter also comes with dish-type blade carriers ("stump jumpers") as standard equipment to help carry the cutter over obstructions in the field.

Other significant features on the new cutter are: 125-horsepower "Y" gear box (center) and 80 horsepower gear boxes on the folding wings; Hydraulic adjustment for convenient control of the cutting height; Forged, alloy steel blades (1/2" x 4"), offset and overlapped to prevent streaking; Adjustable skids on wings and center section--standard.

The Cyclone Cutter operates at PTO speeds of 1,000 or 540 RPM, measures 170" x 184", overall, and weighs a hefty 3,800 pounds.

Sukup Manufacturing is a 25-year-old company widely recognized for its extensive line of grain-handling equipment. Recently, the company has expanded by adding a field implement line, which includes a high-residue cultivator, ridge-till planting attachments, and a grain cart, in addition to the new Cyclone Cutter. For more information, contact Sukup Manufacturing Company, P.O. Box 677, Sukup Parkway, Sheffield, Iowa 50475. Phone (515)-892-4222. (FAX 515-892-4629).

Deere Introduces Air Seeding Systems

MOLINE, IL. — John Deere's new 777 air seeding system, when combined with the new 610 seeding tool or 1060 seeding tool, allows air seeding of small grains with a machine that does not require an auxiliary engine or a tractor with a power-take-off. This is done through the use of a hydraulic fan drive.

When coupled with a new 610 seeding tool or new 1060 seeding tool, the 777 system replaces the 655 and 665 central metering seeders, 775 and 785 air hoe drills, and the 770 and 780 air disk drills. The system is available in 110- or 160-bushel sizes in either tow-behind or tow-between models. The tank carts feature a 60/40 split for grain and fertilizer.

Tow-between and tow-behind carts can be used with the 610 seeding tool for seeders and hoe drills. Only tow-between carts are used with the 1060 seeding tool for disk drills.

A tow-behind cart helps seed emergence by eliminating seeding into cart tire tracks and provides improved visibility of the seeding tool in operation and transport and makes the cart more assessible for filling. A tow-between cart eliminates the remaining tire tracks in the field.

The 777 system is equipped with a switch box that allows the operator to shut off, meters when not needed. A monitor permits the operator to closely watch fan speed, ground speed, meter shaft speeds, area covered, and bin levels.

The seed distributor system features improved seeding accuracy. A dual air system is available for separate seed and fertilizer placement and an auger is available for filling or emptying the grain tank for clean-out.

610 Seeding Tool

The 610 seeding tool, available in 23- to 41-foot widths, features 8-, 10-, or 12-inch spacing and a 4"x4" welded frame. Four different openers provide a variety of seed patterns from full coverage broadcast application to 12-inch spaced rows.

The 777 air seeding system is available in tow-behind or tow-between models. A tow-behind cart eliminates cart tire tracks.

Two seeder openers are available: 12-inch spaced units utilize a 1¼ "x2"x28" opener with 550-pound penetration force; 10- and 8- spaced units use a 1¼ "x2"x28" opener with 400-pound penetration force. A 4"x14" v-groove press wheel is available with these openers.

A new more reliable hoe opener is available on the 8-, 10-, and 12-inch models. Similar to conventional openers, it lays seed into the moisture level with an adjustable penetration force of 100 to 300 pounds. Semi-pneumatic press wheels are available to provide good seed-to-soil contact and

Kubota Dealers Preview High-Tech Products

ATLANTA, GA. — Kubota Tractor Corporation (KTC), one of the nation's premier marketers of compact tractors and consumer power products, previewed today, at its National Dealer Meeting, the latest in high tech products for a group of nearly 250 Kubota dealers.

Participants gathered in Atlanta, Ga., recently to attend product demonstrations and tour the grounds of the new manufacturing facility currently under construction by KTC's parent company, Kubota Ltd. (KBT), in nearby Gainesville. The 70,000-square-foot Kubota Manufacturing of America (KMA) plant is KBT's first U.S. manufacturing facility.

Featured speakers at the three day meeting included S. Egusa, president of KTC, who spoke of Kubota's longstanding philosophy of building quality products to meet customer needs and its relationship to the 1988 Dealer Meeting theme of "Technology and Teamwork," and Ron Lytle, senior vice-president of KTC sales and marketing, who directed his comments to KBT's worldwide diversification of products and services ranging from the manufacturing of agricultural equipment to advances in the field of bio technology.

In addition, Egusa and Lytle welcomed the executive managing director of KBT, K. Uda, and the president of KBT, S. Mino to the event. Mino was presented with a special plaque by the dealers in appreciation for the support KBT has provided them throughout the years.

Kubota's new product preview included the new M7030SU agricultural tractor, three new G-Series garden tractors, the T1600H lawn tractor and two new walk-behind mowers. In addition to the product presentations, the dealers had an opportunity to witness live dramatizations of customer/dealer sales encounters demonstrating proper selling techniques and tour the new plant site.

Nutrena Feeds Markets Oats Alternative For Horses

MINNEAPOLIS, MN — A horse feed developed as an alternative to this year's more expensive oats is available from the Nutrena Feed Division of Cargill.

The new product, called Horse H'oats Pellets, can be fed with hay or as an alternative to oats in the grain mix of horse rations, according to Wayne Hoelscher. Nutrena's farm store product manager.

"We added the product to our horse feeds line because oats not only cost more this year, but the quality of oats varies more," he said. "This product contains ingredients with consistent quality and is formulated to provide similar 'effective fiber' as that contained in oats. This allows horses to stay on feed and helps minimize digestive upsets."

Horse H'oats Pellets also contain molasses for added palatability and energy. The pellets are convenient to handle and are available in bulk or bags. The product can be purchased at Nutrena dealerships in selected geographic areas, Hoelscher said.

Pioneer Selects Eastern Field Agronomist

MT. JOY (Lancaster) — A new agronomist has been selected by Pioneer Hi-Bred to serve farmers in southern and western Pennsylvania, western Maryland and northern West Virginia.

Joey Mayer, formerly an agricultural county extension agent in Cumberland County, will provide technical service to farmers in three sales districts, said John Weidman, area sales manager for Pioneer.

"We recognize the importance of helping customers understand how our products perform on their farm. Joey has a lot of experience in agronomy and farm management and will be a great help to farmers in this area," Weidman said.

Mayer earned a master's degree in agronomy from the Pennsylvania State University. He and his wife Amy live in Carlisle, Pa.

Air Seeding Systems

have the ability to shed soil by tire "flexing."

A new deep-banding opener, with 750-pound penetration force and deep banding knife on 12-inch spacing, places fertilizer up to 5 inches deep.

The 610's floating hitch allows even seeding from front to rear in uneven ground. Four ranks with 117-inch fore-aft clearance provide excellent residue flow.

When equipped with a pull-behind tank cart and the proper openers, it is easy to unhook and cap-off the air system and use the machine as a chisel plow.

Level-lift transport permits the 610 to be transported level fore-aft providing equal ground clearance throughout the implement. Four castering wheels, in the front, provide stability to the implement. Transport is improved with over centerfold that also eliminates the need for wing lock-ups.

1060 Seeding Tool

The 1060 seeding tool, combined with the 777 air seeding system, creates an air disk drill with working widths of 24.5, 32.5, and 41 feet.

The 1060 has a 3"x3" welded steel frame, rigid hitch, and a 4-inch square rockshaft to support the seeding tool.

Designed to be towed behind the 777 air seeding system, the 1060 features Real Action™ c-shanks on 9-inch spacing with 10-inch sweeps for weed kill. A heat-treated split tension wear bushing fits into the rolled eye of the standard.

A tine-tooth harrow trails the c-shank, levels the seedbed, and is followed by a double-disk opener which creates a furrow in which seed and fertilizer are delivered by air. A 2"x13" semi-pneumatic press wheel follows the opener to provide good seed-to-soil contact.

Castering stabilizer wheels on the 32.5- and 41-foot models help the unit to follow the terrain, minimize gouging, and permit more even seeding throughout the 1060. Larger tires reduce compaction and improve stability.

Tax Preparation Workshops Offered By Penn State

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — While the April 15 deadline to file income tax returns may seem far away, now is not too soon to learn the latest about how the Internal Revenue Service is interpreting provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

In October, the Cooperative Extension Farm Management program at Penn State is conducting regional Federal and State Income Tax Preparation Workshops in Lancaster, Williamsport, Souderton, Bedford, Pittsburgh, and Meadville.

Tax accountants, tax preparers, farmers, owners of small businesses and other individuals who are looking for current information about charges in tax filing procedures and the latest IRS interpretations of the new law, can register now for a Tax Preparation Workshop in their area. Two-day workshops will be offered on the following dates.

— Lancaster, October 11 and 12 — Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road.

— Williamsport, October 13 and 14 — 234 Montgomery Pike, South Williamsport.

— Souderton, October 17 and 18 — Family Restaurant, Route 113, Franconia.

— Bedford, October 20 and 21 — Arena Restaurant, Route 220.

— Pittsburgh, October 25 and 26 — Days Inn Motel, 300 Tarentum Bridge Road, New Kensington.

— Meadville, October 27 and 28 — David Mead Inn, 455 Chestnut Street.

Topics for discussion include tax changes affecting individuals, taxation of clergy and church personnel, net operating losses, farm tax issues, and the tax impact of pension distributions. In addition, the October workshop will feature a demonstration of computerized tax filing as well as presentations about specific state and federal charges.

Pre-registration is recommended, although not required. The registration fee of $100 includes workshop reference materials, noon lunches and refreshments at breaks. Those who register before September 30 will receive a $25 discount.

For registration forms and detailed information on the tax workshops, contact your county Penn State Cooperative Extension Office or call workshop coordinator Dr. Larry Jenkins at (814) 865-7656.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

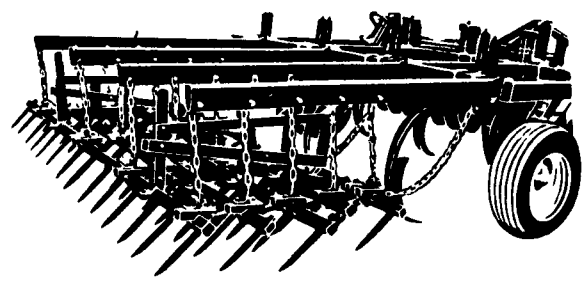
HELP YOUR SOIL BUILDER DO AN EVEN BETTER JOB!



with a BRILLION SPIKE DRAG KIT

The Brillion Spike Drag is especially designed for the Brillion Soil Builder when used in primary tillage. It levels ridges, helps break up cloddy soil and keeps the soil from drying out too rapidly. The smoother surface is also desirable if chemical incorporation is to be done after the coulter-chisel operation.

A special feature of the Brillion Spike Drag is the angle adjustment of the spikes from 20° to 55° in five increments. A sturdy handle is used to move the mechanism. The adjustment feature provides a choice of spike angles to meet varying conditions — from very aggressive to near horizontal (to avoid plugging in heavy residue). Brillion Spike Drag Harrows are available to fit 5, 7, 9, 11 and 13 shank Soil Builders.

4-H Bred & Owned Holstein Supreme Champ Of York Fair

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK — Sunnybend Sexy Icicle B Star, the Holstein senior and grand champion bred and owned by Bridgette Boyer was named the supreme champion of the York Fair 4-H dairy show.

Selection of her winning four-year-old for the supreme title capped a day of awards-taking for Boyer, a veteran York 4-H dairy exhibitor. In the Holstein division, she captured three of the four champion designations with own-bred animals from her first 4-H project animal.

Boyer's Holstein reserve senior and reserve grand champion, a three-year-old, and her reserve junior champion, an intermediate yearling, are both from maternal sisters to the supreme winner.

A junior yearling, praised by judge John Morris for her size and strength, won the Holstein junior champion honors for Dixie Doll of Glenn Rock.

Top honors in the Guernsey division were claimed by Jenelle Boyer of York with a dam-daughter combination. Senior and grand champion went to three-year-old Golden Lock Tex Premier Greta, while the reserve grand and junior champion was her junior yearling daughter.

Junior Jersey breed awards were shared by Annie Rauhause and William Jenkins, both of Dover. Annie Rauhauser's junior champion was a senior yearling, which topped the intermediate calf shown by Jenkins.

Morris tapped his junior animals for the top spots in the Brown Swiss division. The grand champion was Welsh Ponderosa Titan Bunni, a junior calf exhibited by Kelly Jo Myers of York. Sliding into the reserve grand champion position was Patrick Lucabaugh of Spring Grove, who exhibited an intermediate yearling. Kim McCleary of Stewartstown earned senior champion honors with her dry cow entry.

Jenelle Boyer was selected champion fitter of the 4-H competition by judge Jeffrey Myers. In the showmanship runoffs, age category winners were Bridgette Boyer, senior; Jenelle Boyer, intermediate; and Trisha Duncan, junior.

Precautions for Feeding Drought Stressed Corn

The effects of this summer's drought are not over. Feed ingredient prices are still much higher than last year. Hogs prices are depressed, due at least in part to some sow herd liquidation. And we'll soon be feeding hogs a lot of corn that was grown under severe drought stress. That's not guarantee for trouble but it's certainly a signal to be cautious.

LOW TEST-WEIGHT GRAINS

One potential result of dry growing conditions is a low test weight (low bushel weight) for grain. While low test-weight grains often have normal or higher protein contents, they're usually lower in energy. When feeding low-test grains, studies at Kansas State University and the University of Kentucky show that growth rate is not affected, but pigs have to consume more feed, so feed efficiency drops (usually 5 to 7%).

But it's also possible that severe drought stress will have no effect on test-weight or hog performance, even though the effects on corn crop yield are dramatic, studies at the University of Kentucky show. Two drought stressed varieties of corn there following the drought of '83 had normal bushel weights and higher than normal protein. The drought stressed corn supported performance that was slightly superior to that of normal corn.

When feeding suspect grains, check bushel weights and protein contents. If these two values are normal, hog performance should not change.

MOLDS AND MYCOTOXINS

Dry weather can also lead to mold growth, particularly the aflatoxin-producing variety (Aspergillus). Moisture levels of 18 to 20% in corn, often occur in hot dry climates and are ideal for Aspergillus growth. Normally, aflatoxin is most prevalent in the Southeast, but after this summer, aflatoxin will probably be more widespread.

Another effect of the drought will be short corn supplies. That means that a lot of two and three-year-old corn will come out of storage. With a lengthy storage time, there's often more opportunity for insect growth, bin condensation, and damaged kernels (from shuffling corn from one location to another). That opens the door for mold growth -- often Fusarium, which produces zearalenone, vomitoxin (deoxynivalenol) and T-2 (one of the tricothecenes).

Effects of Aflatoxin

The major aflatoxin of concern is B1. It causes liver and kidney damage and is considered to be one of the most carcinogenic (cancer causing) compounds known to man. Other similar aflatoxins, but less toxic than B1, include B2, G1, and G2.

The first sign of aflatoxin poisoning is low feed intake and a poor growth rate. Weight gains are reduced when less than .5 ppm of aflatoxin are present in the feed. Levels exceeding 1.5 ppm impair feed efficiency. Chronically poisoned pigs may have impaired blood clotting or may die of liver and kidney damage.

Effects of Zearalenone

Zearalenone is an estrogen-like compound. One ppm in the feed enlarges the vulva and uterus, even in young gilts. Sows may fail to cycle, or show pseudo pregnancy when consuming feed containing 3 ppm of zearalelone. Higher levels may lead to abortion.

Levels as low as 2 ppm reduce testicular growth and total sperm number in boars. When levels reach 40 ppm of zearalenone, testosterone in the blood may drop and prevent the boar from mating successfully.

Zearalenone also reportedly irritates the lining of the rectum. This leads to straining and eventual prolapse or "blow-out" of the rectum.

Effects of Vomitoxin

The most obvious effect of vomitoxin is a dramatic reduction in feed intake. Levels as low as 2.5 ppm impair feed intake and weight gains. Levels of 20 ppm can cause vomiting in young pigs.

Effects of T-2

At levels of 8 to 10 ppm, pigs will have decreased weight gains and the immune system may be suppressed. At 16 ppm, feed refusal or vomiting may be observed. Pigs may also suffer from ulcers, oral lesions and enteritis.

DETECTING MYCOTOXINS

The classic detection method that most producers know about is the "black light" test. The problem is, the black light test applies only to corn and only to aflatoxin. If one or more bright greenish yellow fluorescent dots or "glowers" are found in a five-pound sample of corn, it's judged positive for aflatoxin. But there are lots of false positives, since things besides aflatoxin can fluoresce.

A more accurate, broad-spectrum test is the ELISA method. This can be purchased as a kit for roughly $10 per sample and can be used to screen feed samples for aflatoxin B1, zearalenone, T-2 and vomitoxin. A separate kit is needed for each mycotoxin. Commercial and state laboratories use slightly different methods.

Keep in mind that even when mycotoxin symptoms in the pigs jump out at you, the tests are often negative. This has been my experience, especially with zearalenone.

WHAT TO DO IF YOU HAVE MYCOTOXIN CONTAMINATION

1. For aflatoxin, the only sure decontamination method I'm aware of is ammoniation. Including ammonium carbonate in the feed or raising the selenium levels to 2.5 ppm (which is 8 times the legal level) may help reduce the effects of aflatoxin.

2. Anitox Vana and ammonium carbonate are claimed to reduce the harmful effects of vomitoxin. However, research from Canada shows little effect of either of these materials.

3. Commercial mold inhibitors and organic acids (fumaric, citric, propionic, acetic) do inhibit mold growth in feed. However, when mycotoxins are a problem they're usually in the corn before it's ground and mixed. Under those conditions, the mold inhibitors will not alleviate the mycotoxin problems already present.

4. Heating, roasting, pelleting have been claimed to kill molds. If mold is present and the temperature is high enough, the molds may very well be destroyed. But many of the mycotoxins are heat stable and may not be affected during the heat process.

5. Dilution with non-contaminated grain is a good bet if mycotoxin levels aren't too high. For example, vomitoxin levels in your corn might be 50 ppm. If you reduce that corn from 1600 to 200 pounds per ton, you would still have 4 ppm in the feed -- high enough to hurt performance.

6. Consider having the grain cleaned to eliminate the fines and foreign material. Often, the mycotoxins will be contained in these components.

7. If at all possible, avoid feeding the contaminated grain to sows. Aborted litters are expensive.

SUMMARY

If you see any of the following symptoms in your pigs, be suspicious of mycotoxin poisoning.

*Feed refusal
*Swollen vulvas
*Prolapsed rectums
*Convulsions
*Death
*General reduction in performance

York Fair Breeding Swine Show

BY LISA RISSER

YORK — After almost two days of competition, three animals reigned supreme at the York Fair's Breeding Swine Show. Judge Vern Hazlet of Penn State named the champion Hampshire barrow shown by Carolyn Thomas as the show's supreme champion barrow; the reserve champion Spotted gilt exhibited by James Parlett & Sons as the supreme champion gilt; and the champion Duroc boar owned by David Holloway as the supreme champion boar.

The champion Spotted female, shown by Ron Trostle, was ineligible to compete for the supreme champion gilt title because she was a sow.

Parlett and Holloway faced stiff competition in the Duroc division, which was the show's largest category, but came out on top with Parlett having the champion and reserve champion sow as well as the reserve champion boar. Holloway had the champion boar and champion barrow. The reserve champion barrow slot went to Thomas Frantz.

Rodger Bankert and Parlett traded off the top honors in the Chester White boar and sow positions, with Parlett showing both champion and reserve champion barrows. Bankert exhibited the champion sow and reserve champion boar, while Parlett added the purple rosette for the champion boar and the pink rosette for the reserve champion sow to his collection.

Five out of the six top spots in the Berkshire competition went to the Cornbower family. Both champion sow titles were taken by Russell Cornbower as were both champion barrow titles. The champion boar was exhibited by Arlie and Russell Cornbower, while Daniel J. Hartman went home with the reserve champion boar.

John Strawbridge dominated the Hampshire and Yorkshire shows going home with a carload of blue and red ribbons. His main competition in the Hampshire division was Carolyn Thomas, whose champion barrow went on to become the show's supreme champion. All other champion and reserve champion ribbons went to Strawbridge. In the Yorkshire division the reserve champion boar was exhibited by Wilson Yorshires, while the reserve champion barrow was owned by Jeff Stern. Strawbridge exhibited the remaining champions and the reserve champion sow.

Ron Trostle claimed the most champion and reserve champion honors in the Spotted competition. He showed the reserve champion boar, champion sow, and reserve champion barrow. A barrow shown by Parlett was named the champion Spotted barrow, while one of his sows also was selected as champion. The champion boar honors went to Larry Robinson.

The Poland titles all went to Kenneth Bauer, who faced no competition. Tunnel Hill Farm showed the top six animals in the Landrace division.

A partial list of the placings follows.

The champion Berkshire sow was exhibited by Russell Cornbower.

Tunnel Hill Farm, represented by Karen Mummert, captured the open swine Landrace gilt classes with her homebred entry.

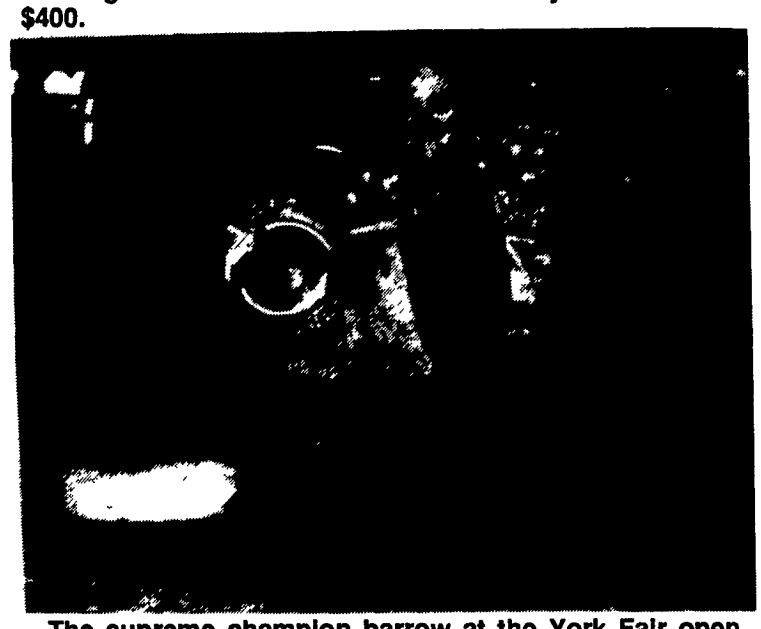
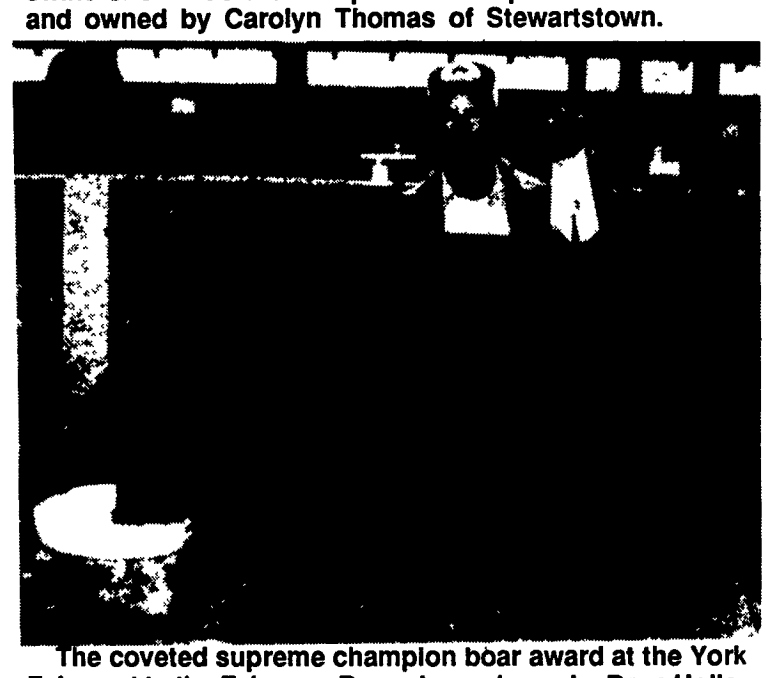
James Parlett Airville exhibited the supreme champion female, the reserve champion Spotted gilt, at the York Fair. The hog was sold at the Pride of York County Swine Sale for $400.



The supreme champion barrow at the York Fair open swine show was the Hampshire champion that was bred and owned by Carolyn Thomas of Stewartstown.



The coveted supreme champion boar award at the York Fair went to the February Duroc boar shown by Dave Holloway of Seven Valleys. The animal sold at the Pride of York County Swine Sale for $400.

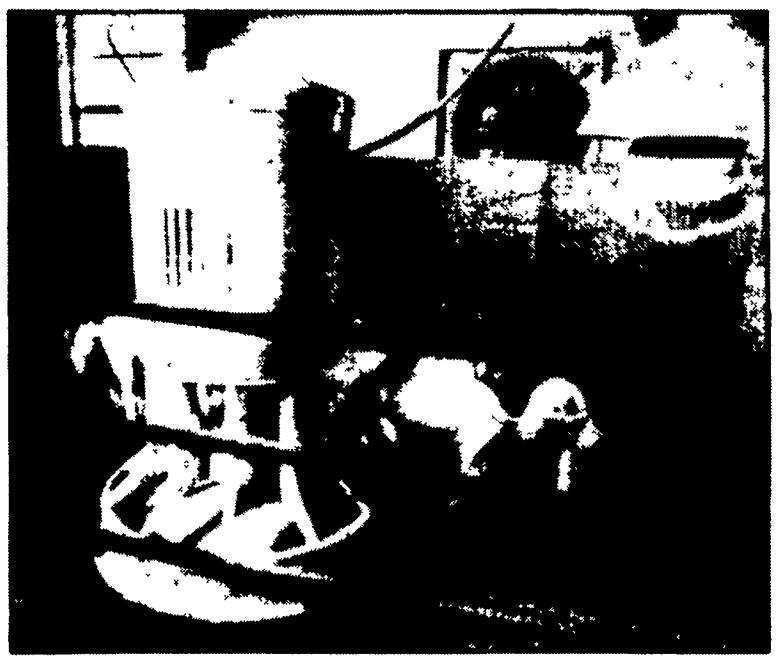
CHORE-TIME®

CHORE-TIME Baby Pig Saver™

Liquid Feeding System Designed For Automatically Feeding Pre-Nursery Age Pigs

A New Idea That Can Let You Cut 80% Of Baby Pig Losses



Up to 10 pigs - not more than 10 - can be placed on this feeder until old enough to digest dry feed without scouring: about 3 or 4 weeks of age. We do not recommend placing pigs less than 2 to 4 days of age on the feeder. Pigs must have sow's colostrum before going on the feeder.

Here's when to use this feeder

1 For small pigs having a hard time competing with littermates - or use it for the largest pigs of a litter, allowing smallest pigs to remain with the sow

2 If the sow stops lactating or dies, the Pig Saver will serve as a substitute for an entire litter of up to 10 pigs

3 In an all-in/all-out farrowing system, it's necessary to wean some pigs at less than 3 weeks of age Young piglets don't have a fully developed digestive system always able to handle plant proteins A few days on the Pig Saver post-weaning will allow young pigs to catch up

4 Place a feeder in the nursery and use it to give a boost to pigs old enough to wean but biologically not ready to be placed on dry feed A few days will let them catch up

1. ALFALFA:
   - A. TOPDRESS: after this cutting to guard against winter kill.
   - B. FALL WEED CONTROL: Some weeds lower protein content, feed value and production. Almost all weeds make hay less palatable to animals. Weeds shorten the life of the stand, too. When growing alfalfa you make more money by growing it clean with PRINCEP Cal 90. For best results apply immediately after last cutting. Don't Wait!!
2. SMALL GRAINS: We have starter fertilizer, quality wheat and barley seed. Also COVER CROP RYE in bags or spreaders.

PURINA FEEDING PROGRAMS PROOF... THEY WORK

Jay Hershey, Jonestown, Lebanon County

Put together alfalfa hay, corn silage, ear corn chop and Maxi Tech 32% concentrate and you get a year by year improved rolling herd average that exceeds the original goal. At least that's the experience of Jay Hershey, Jonestown, Lebanon County.

"When we moved here from Lancaster County in 1984, we bought a herd and added a few additional cows that gave us a rolling herd average of 17,611 lbs.," Jay said. "I had a goal at the time to reach 18,000 lbs. of milk. Now when we push toward 22,000 lbs., I just stand back in a bit of amazement."

Jay considers his calf and heifer raising program to be a key to the successful current rolling herd average of 21,521m 3.4% 731f 677p on 40 cows. Calves are started in hutches--a must Jay thinks. At 2 months, they are grouped according to size so no individual gets pushed around.

Calf Startena, Growena and lots and lots of hay get Spring-Vue heifers ready for early breeding--often in time to freshen by 23 months. "We don't cut corners on our feeding program so we may as well breed them early," Jay said. "It often helps back up the late fall freshening dates."

Freshstart D&H Pellets along with roughages get the dry cows into good condition for freshening, too.

Individual production records in the herd give Jay good reason to have never fed anything but Purina concentrates. For example, the first calf heifer, Spring-Vue Charmer Abby, reached peak production of 98 lbs. of milk per day in the sixth month after freshening. The Very Good 87-point aged cow, Orchard-Dew Legacy Naomi, produced over 30,000 lbs. of milk with 3.9% and 1101f.

"I just try to do what the experts say I should do," Jay said. "I really don't have a goal to go higher in production. I want to be as cost efficient as possible. This doesn't necessarily mean the lowest priced feed. Often Purina is a little more expensive. But when others talk price, I like to figure how much the cows could drop in production if I switched to a lower quality feed. A small drop in production will quickly offset any savings on cost for a lower quality product. I don't like to cheat on purchased feeds and seeds because that's where you get the most return for the dollars you spend."

Jay also considers service a must. "If Umbergers Of Fontana were not giving me good service, I'd be looking elsewere," Jay said. "But Kim Horning, farm consultant and I discuss a lot of things. I'd feel lost without that interchange."

And the people at Purina appreciate Jay and Carol Hershey and son Brian, 6 and daughter, Lisa, 2, too. The Hersheys represent another dairy farm family with excellent management and feeding practices on the growing list of Purina's satisfied customers.
